North Koreans shoot barbs at U.S. streaking

United Press International

Socialist North Korea took official notice of "streaking" today and concluded the United States must be cracking up.

"This glaringly shows that the Yankees are beasts in human skin," said Rodong Shimoon, official newspaper of the North Korean Labor (Socialist) party. "American society is a society of brutes facing an imminent doom. It is rotten to the core," the newspaper said.

The paper's dyspeptic comments on streaking were broadcast by North Korea's official KCNA News agency and monitored in Tokyo.

"Can animals do more filthy things?" the North Korean paper asked. "Nude masquerades are staged everywhere in the United States. Fifty coeds on the night of March 4 raced in the nude in a North Carolina University town. Boys gave them loud applause."

Streaking by American soldiers in South Korea was reported with a certain lightness by non-Communist news media, but here's now it came out in KCNA.

"The wretches of the U.S. imperialist aggressor forces stationed in (South Korea) ran about the village naked on the night of March 15. On the same day, two other naked beasts committed similar barbarism defying human imagination, holding their underwear in their hands."

KCNA said the soldiers were "steeped in immorality and depravity in the corrupt society of Americans."

In South Korea, where about 40,000 American servicemen are stationed, U.S. military authorities Wednesday asked their troops to give up the practice. South Korean President Park Chung-hee's government has been threatening American troops with jail sentences of up to one year if they are caught streaking.

North Korea's relations with the United States have been in deep chill ever since the Korean war of 1950-53 when American troops fought a standoff war with the North Koreans and Chinese over control of the Korean peninsula.

Elsewhere around the world:

— Quito, Ecuador's first streaker was greeted with jeers and shouts of "copycat" as he raced down a main street Wednesday. In Ecuador's port city of Guayaquil, a woman fainted when two young men streaked a residential street.

—Traffic in Jalapa, Mexico, was halted Wednesday by two young men carrying protest signs while walking nude through the downtown streets of this normally sleepy Mexican state capital.

The youths, students 20 and 22 years old, carried signs saying they were protesting the lack of government support for local artists. A city official said no official complaint had been filed, but if the youths had been caught they would had to undergo "corrective treatments."

—In San Marcos, Tex, Jack C. Cates, acting president of Southwest Texas State University, said streaking must stop or it would "do irreparable damage to the university". He said firm disciplinary action and possibly court action would be taken.

—In Monroe, La., Jimmy Charles Sharp, 26, was waiting in a holding cell to be arraigned on an escape charge, when a guard opened the door. Sharp, minus his clothes, ran out the cell past 100 courtroom spectators, by Judge Elvis Stout, and out a side door. City Attorney Larry Lolley chased him four blocks and past a funeral procession before catching him. The judge said: "It has serious overtones. It was worse than the campus type thing that went on."

Casino manager, wife ambushed

2 slain in Las Vegas Mafia 'rubout'

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A shotgun blast in a dark hallway Wednesday killed an expert slot machine cheater who was expected to testify against a Mafia chieftain and other gambling figures. His wife died with him.

"It was definitely a rubout job" by a professional, hired gunman, a police investigator said.

Law enforcement sources said it was common knowledge in the local underworld that there was a gangland "contract" out on John Dubcek, 31, manager of the Westward-Ho Casino.

Dubcek and his wife, Frances, 27, who worked in the snack bar at the Westward-Ho, were gunned down as they entered a dark hallway returning to their apartment after work.

Mrs. Dubcek had a permit to carry a pistol, police said, but she left the gun in the apartment when she drove to the Casino to pick up her husband.

Dubcek was walking behind his wife when the killer fired from about 15 feet behind them. The blast tore into his upper right back.

His wife turned and the gunman shot her in the face.

"Those after him were not from Chicago or New York, they were from the Los Angeles area," a source connected to the case said.

A police source said Dubcek had a reputation as a skilled slot machine cheater "but he has been pretty straight for the last year."

Dubcek was scheduled to testify in Los Angeles next Tuesday in a federal court trial of seven men accused of running a rigged gambling operation that allegedly took in up to $250,000 a month.

One of the defendants is Peter John Milano, 47, of Northridge, Calif., who the FBI identifies as a ranking member of the Mafia "family" headed by Nick Licata.

Dubcek reportedly testified to the federal grand jury that subsequently indicted Milano and the others on charges of operating a rigged gambling operation that moved from house to house in the San Fernando Valley area of suburban Los Angeles.

The ring allegedly employed prostitutes who were paid to bring their customers to the gambling operations, where they could be fleeced.

Others indicted were Beverly Hills attorney Martin Calaway, John Joseph Vaccaro, 33, of Las Vegas, Luigi Delfuso, 48, operator of a Fresno rubbish collection firm, Harry Coloduros, Tony Endreola and Santo Manfre, all of Los Angeles.

The indictments followed an intensive investigation by the FBI Los Angeles police and the Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike force.

In 1972, Dubcek was charged with running, in partnership with Vaccaro, a crooked gambling operation in Van Nuys. The charges were later dropped.

Dubcek was also under subpoena to appear before the Nevada Gaming Control Board March 26 at a hearing into the gambling work permit of Delbert Donham, a blackjack dealer and slot machine expert. A spokesman for the board said Dubcek was Donham's partner "in the operation of crooked gaming devices in an illegal operation in the Los Angeles area."

HOT REFLECTIONS

A 45-foot high wall of mirrors, part of the world's second largest solar furnace, was unveiled Wednesday at White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. Nuclear physicist Richard Dysart stands in front of the furnace, which can produce temperatures up to 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The furnace will be used to test the effects of heat on equipment, primarily on missiles.

Still skyrocketing

Food, fuel price rises hike living costs 1.3%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Higher food and fuel prices pushed the cost of living up 1.3 per cent in February, the second largest monthly boost since 1951, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said today.

The BLS said the cost of living had skyrocketed 10 per cent over the last 12 months, the first time it had reached that mark since the 10.2 per cent in the year ending December, 1947.

Almost half the February increase was caused by higher food costs, with higher prices for gasoline and energy sources accounting for about one-fifth of the monthly boost.

The increase was the highest since last August, when the jump amounted to 1.8 per cent. The highest before that was in January of 1951, when the cost of living also rose 1.8 per cent. The BLS said the percentage increase for fuel and gasoline—5.5 per cent—was not quite so large as January's 6 per cent rise. But the boost helped shove the total living costs way up, the bureau said.

The index for household services, including charges for gas, electricity, housekeeping and rent, rose .7 per cent in February and medical care costs increased even more sharply.

The BLS said the spendable earnings of American workers declined .6 per cent from January, almost entirely because of the increase in the cost of living.

Bail denied

British feel others in kidnap plot

LONDON (UPI) — The man accused of attempting to kidnap Princess Anne was held without bail today in a brief hearing in which police revealed he had a large sum of money in a bank account and may have had the help of associates.

The specific charge against Ian Ball, 26, a slender though powerfully built six-footer, was the attempted murder of Princess Anne's bodyguard, Detective Inspector James Beaton, one of four men shot in the bizarre ambush of a royal limousine a few yards from Buckingham Palace Wednesday night.

Ball was brought into Bow Street Magistrate's court under the heaviest security precautions there in memory.

The measures were so stringent as to underline the police theory that Ball may not have operated alone.

Asked by Magistrate Kenneth Barraclough if he had any objection to being held without bail or to the police examining his bank account Ball said quietly:

"No, but I'd like to apply for legal aid."

Until that moment it had been assumed that the attempted kidnapping of the daughter of Queen Elizabeth was the work of a lone operator. But Ranson said:

"We are endeavoring to trace his associates."

Ball was listed as "unemployed and of no fixed address."

Mark and Anne drove to Sandhurst after resting at Buckingham Palace, where they were taken "very shaken" by the attempted kidnaping which, had it succeeded, would have been without parallel in modern times. The abduction of the Queen's daughter would have been tantamount to holding the entire nation to ransom.

But the gunman failed. Police reaction apparently was quicker than he had expected.

Neither the Princess nor her husband was hit in the macabre scene in which they scrambled for their lives on the back seat of the Princess' automobile while the frantic gunman alternately tried to get a shot home and shook the car in his frenzy to force the doors open.

Since he had in his pocket a ransom note to the Queen about her daughter, it was assumed the bullets in the car were intended to kill only Capt. Phillips as an obstacle to escaping with the 23-year-old princess, who is fourth in succession to the throne.

Realizing he had failed as police reinforcements came up, the gunman raced into the dark of nearby St. James' Park, pursued by police constable Peter Edwards, 21, who brought him down with a flying tackle. The coincidence that helped in his capture was the presence of more police than usual in the area for that hour when the queen is not in residence at nearby Buckingham palace.

Lowest bid on Bonelli Park's phase four $1.7 million over L.A. County estimate

SAN DIMAS — A low bid of $6,291,000—considerably higher than expected — has been turned into the county for the development of phase four of Bonelli Park.

The offer to develop a picnic area, to build boat launching and rental quarters, to fashion a group camping section, to establish riding and hiking trails and to build headquarters for the park, is $1.7 million higher than an estimate by the county engineer's office three months ago.

The bid, the lowest of three submitted to the engineer's office Wednesday, was made by Pascal and Ludwig, an Upland engineering corporation.

The county engineer's office said one reason the bids ran so high was the rise in the price of asphalt and oil products during the past three months. Much of the work involves road work.

Wednesday's bid puts the cost of Bonelli Park to well over $21 million, not including the rebuilding and improvement of Mountain Meadows golf course, which hit a snag earlier in the week.

Still to be contracted is phase five—the building of a tram throughout the park, and the finishing touches on the 2,000-acre undertaking.

Although the Board of Supervisors had approved plans for phase four earlier this year, there was some question now as to the outcome of the contract, because of the inflated costs.

Both Chairman Kenneth Hahn and Supervisor Baxter Ward were critical at Tuesday's meeting of the cost of developing the park, and called for austere measures to cut the costs.

However, a spokesman for the office of Supervisor Peter F. Schabarum, whose First District covers Bonelli Park, said he expected the bid to be approved next Tuesday by a 3-2 majority.

Last Tuesday the board killed a proposed lease for the development of the Mountain Meadows golf course within the park. With the transaction needing a 4-1 vote, Hahn and Ward cast negative ballots.

Because of that vote, the golf course is now in limbo, awaiting the drawing of new plans and specifications by the county engineer's office. After the defeat of the lease agreement, the board unamimously approved an alternate proposal to allow anyone to submit a bid for construction of the course.

If the phase four contract is approved by the board, construction is expected to start next month. Completion is projected for December, 1975.

Charred body was man; identity still sought

SAN DIMAS — Sheriff's homicide officers, seeking leads in the slaying Wednesday morning of an unidentified man, stopped motorists early today who drove through the area where the victim's burning body had been found.

But their efforts reportedly turned up no new information in the case.

They also said today that there have been no new developments in the stabbing death the day before of J. W. Clements, 49-year-old Corona man whose body was found by a hiker in the Live Oak Canyon area near La Verne.

The roadblock this morning was set up on Gladstone Street west of San Dimas Avenue and was manned during a two-hour period. Deputies sought information from motorists who had passed through the area at about the same time the body was dumped, set afire and discovered Wednesday morning.

The body was first seen by Phillip R. Dinter, 25, 4434 Bonnie Brae Ave., Montclair, as he rode his motorcycle in the 500 block of W. Gladstone Street on his way to work.

Dinter told another employe that he had either seen a burning body or mannequin on a grassy knoll about 50 feet from the road. The two returned, confirmed it was a body and went to the home of Edith M. Burgess at 539 W. Gladstone St. to call authorities.

When Deputies John R. Helfrich and Robert W. De Courcey arrived at 7 a.m. they found flames rising three feet from the body. They used the fire extinguisher from their radio car to control the fire, but it was finally put out by county firemen using a water line a few minutes later.

Examination showed that the body was nude, except for socks, and was charred from the waist up, making identification by the facial features impossible. The cause of death was not obvious and deputies said they expected today's autopsy to indicate how the victim, listed officially as John Doe, had been killed.

55 m.p.h. limit breeds disrespect for law?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The head of the California Highway Patrol says the 55 mile per hour national speed limit is breeding disrespect for the law because motorists know it is unnecessary and does little good, and so they have no reservations about breaking it.

Higher speed limits should be restored as soon as practical as the gasoline shortage eases, Commissioner Walter Pudinski said Wednesday.

The lower speed limit is not an important factor in reduced traffic deaths, Pudinski said. Fewer people are hurt or die in auto crashes because there are fewer cars on the road, not because they are moving at slower speeds, he said.

"I think the limit should go back up to 65 as soon as practical because that's what we designed our freeways for," Pudinski told an interviewer.

The slow speeds are going to be "difficult for the public to accept now that the crisis has eased. They're going to violate the law and we're going to have difficulty maintaining tight control" and the highway patrol will thus "lose credibility," he said.

"We're going to catch the brunt of the criticism" for enforcing a law many people do not want, he complained.

"We're not arresting people for speeding to enforce traffic safety, which should be our job," he said. "We're arresting people as an energy conservation measure, and that shouldn't be a law enforcement issue."

"Lower trafifc volumes have made more of a contribution to lower death rates than the speed limit. The limit obviously has been a factor, but if the volume of traffic increases again because everyone has gasoline, the safety picture will change regardless of what the speed limit is," he said.

As it is, he said, drivers ignore the lower limit "when no patrolman is around," but do not go all the way back to the previous speed. Instead traffic seems to move about 60 m.p.h., which, he said, "is pretty good."

"As long as the lower limit remains, we will do our best to enforce it so it's not a farce," he said. "It's not up to me to let up ... that's a political decision, up to the legislature . . . We're still knocking 'em over like you can't believe because it's our job to enforce the law."

'Losing control,' Hearst warns SLA kidnapers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Randolph Hearst has warned the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers of his daughter that he is "losing control" of some things that could help win Patty's freedom.

The spate of kidnapings apparently copied from the abduction of his daughter 45 days ago, he said, was "making it more difficult" to conduct negotiations for release of his 20-year-old college coed daughter.

"I think the one thing we have in common is that the SLA and I don't want to see my daughter killed," Hearst said when he appeared Wednesday before reporters and television cameras in front of his suburban Hillsborough home.

"This is the biggest plus there is."

But, he said, the longer the kidnaping goes on the more difficult it is for him to conduct negotiations.

"I'm losing control of some of the things that might have been easier to do two or three weeks ago," he said.

"The longer things go on and the longer public opinion gets solidified (by imitative kidnapings), it seems to make it more difficult to get people to change their minds."

In a personal message to his daughter, Patricia, 20, Hearst said:

"Patty—again—just hang in there. I am trying to do everything I can to facilitate the demands of the SLA."

The SLA, a shadowy terrorist group, has demanded that Hearst, son of the late William Randolph Hearst who founded the Hearst newspapers, provide $70 worth of free food to every needy Californian. Hearst put up $2 million to initiate the "People In Need" food program, but the SLA in taped messages has said that it was too little and of poor quality.

Scotland Yard to revamp royal family's security

LONDON (UPI) — The attempt to kidnap Princess Anne prompted a major review today of security precautions to protect the royal family, government sources said.

Security chiefs met at government offices and Scotland Yard police headquarters before reporting to Home Secretary Roy Jenkins on the attack Wednesday night, they said.

The moves came as military and police officials drastically stepped up security surrounding the home of the royal couple at Sandhurst, the Royal Military Academy south of London where Capt. Mark Phillips serves as an instructor.

An army spokesman said about 300 soldiers were issued weapons to join police with dogs on the grounds and that the academy as a whole was placed on "amber alert."

All members of the royal family have bodyguards who are crack shots and are followed by a back up car containing other officers when they travel.

For major state occasions, these men are complemented by motorcycle outriders and the assignment of uniformed police along the parade routes.

But a police spokesman said the princess and her husband were only provided minimum protection Wednesday night because their trip to see a film in the city was considered a routine affair.

Police sources said today this arrangement might be drastically improved as a result of the attack.

Among measures under consideration were installation of bullet proof glass and steel on the royal limousines and motorcycle escorts and more armed guards for all royal entourages, they said.

Security arrangements at places they visit also may be boosted, the sources said.

But, they said, no security arrangement can guarantee safety against an unexpected attack of the sort which happened Wednesday night.

Areas of both nations affected

U.S.-Canada okay asked for natural gas pipeline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. and Canadian governments were asked Thursday to approve construction of a $5.7 billion pipeline to carry natural gas from the north slope of Alaska and the Mackenzie river delta of northern Canada into major energy consuming areas of the two countries.

The application was filed by the Alaskan Arctic Gas Pipeline Co. and Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Limited, who termed the proposed 2,600-mile pipeline "the largest construction project in the history of private enterprise." They said it could be in partial operation by 1978 if given prompt approval.

Robert G. Ward, President of Alaskan Arctic Gas, said that when full capacity was reached the pipeline would deliver "well over" four billion cubic feet of gas a day, or an amount equal to about 6 per cent of North America's current demand for some 24 trillion cubic feet a year.

When other firms are brought into the project, he said, the total investment may reach as high as $8 billion with a resulting "dramatic impact" on U.S. employment, energy supplies and the economy generally. The line would stretch from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay to distribution points along the U.S.-Canadian border.

Noting the sensitivity of environmentalists, who fought unsuccessfully to block the Alaskan oil pipeline, Wood said more than $50 million was spent on planning which will result in "measures that will enhance the environment or mitigate adverse environmental effects of construction and other operations."

"These intensive and expensive efforts have produced information that places us in a preeminent position to link the enormous gas reserges in the far north to U.S. markets where the need for this clean fuel is so tremendous," he added.

Wood said U.S. consumers in the Midwest, East Coast, West and Far West would receive all the Alaskan gas and any excess from the Canadian fields after Canada's needs are met. He said an estimated 122 million consumers live in the areas that would receive Alaskan gas.

"This project will allow the United States to use the huge gas reserves of northern Alaska," Wood said. "At the same time, it will result in closer ties between the United States and Canada."

The project must be approved by the U.S. Interior Department and the U.S. Federal Power Commission, Canada's National Energy Board and Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development and numerous other federal, state, provincial and local agencies in both countries.

Wood noted that President Nixon in his recent energy message to Congress ordered prompt recommendations for ways of transporting Alaskan natural gas to its 48 sister states. He said Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau also has stated he sees no objection to such a pipeline.

Wood said the project would take more than two million tons of 48 and 42-inch pipe costing $1.6 million, 41 compressing or chilling stations costing $563 million, communications equipment valued at $75 million and $92 million worth of operating and maintenance facilities.

Alaskan Arctic Gas would own and operate the 200 miles of the pipeline in Alaska while Canadian Arctic Gas would own and operate the 2,400 miles across northern and western Canada. The firms are a consortium of 27 Canadian and U.S. pipeline and gas producing companies.

Man paralyzed in Ontario shooting asks $20 million

ONTARIO — A man shot by a former Ontario service station operator in 1971 at 855 S. Euclid Ave. is seeking $20 million in damages from the service station operator and the Mobil Oil Co. in a West Valley Superior Court civil jury trial.

In the trial that began in West Valley Superior Court Monday, Julian Ray Vasquez is seeking the $20 million in damages from the oil company and former Mobil Oil service station operator William Walker.

Vasquez, who was paralyzed from the neck down after the 1971 shooting, will be seeking $10 million for alleged physical damages and $10 million in punitive damages from the defendants. The trial is being conducted in two parts. If the physical damages are won by Vasquez he will seek the punitive damages.

According to Ontario police reports, Walker was the manager of the service station on May 28, 1971 when he allegedly shot Vasquez in the throat. The service station has since closed.

Police said that Vasquez and two others allegedly came at Walker with a knife and bottles during an argument over the fact that there were no towels in the restroom.

A brief word about...

Thurmond birth

GREENWOOD, S. C. (UPI) — Mrs. Nancy Moore Thurmond, the 27-year-old wife of U.S. Sen. Strom Thurmond, 70, has given birth to a seven-pound, one-ounce girl.

A spokesman for the hospital said the baby and Mrs. Thurmond, a former beauty queen, were doing fine and would be discharged in three or four days.

The other children are Nancy Moore 3, and J. Strom Jr., 16 months.

Tree roots politics

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Ninth District congressional hopeful David Strom is trying a new campaign tactic—giving away red maple trees to voters.

Strom, in a four-way race for the Democratic nomination, said he would give 10,000 of the trees on a first-come, first-served basis to anyone in the district.

The 26-year-old insurance salesman also said members of his campaign staff would be available to help plant the trees, which cost him between $4,000 and $4,500.

Mosbacher quits

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Emil "Bus" Mosbacher, a former America's Cup yachtsman, has quit as the $75,000-a-year chairman of the New York Racing and Wagering Board.

Mosbacher was the first chairman of the board which was created last year to oversee thoroughbred and harness racing, wagering and the state's lottery. He accepted the job with the understanding he would serve only six months and help recruit a staff for the board.

Hickel will run

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — Former Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel says he is going to try to reclaim the Alaskan governorship he gave up in 1969 to join the Nixon Cabinet.

Hickel, who made a fortune in construction and land development before entering politics, was elected governor in 1966 on the Republican ticket.

His nomination in this year's primary election in August probably would set up another race against Gov. William A. Egan, the Democratic incumbent, whom Hickel defeated in the 1966 contest.

Hickel resigned as governor in January, 1969, to become Interior Secretary, but was forced to resign from the cabinet in November, 1970, because of differences with Nixon.

Appeal made to keep grand jury report secret

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An attorney for H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman today asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to prevent the House Judiciary Committee from receiving a secret grand jury report on President Nixon's handling of Watergate because it would kill a fair trial for his clients.

John J. Wilson told the court it should halt U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's order of Monday sending the report to the committee, which is investigating whether grounds exist to impeach Nixon.

The report was gathered by the Watergate grand jury that indicted Haldeman, Ehrlichman and five other top presidential aides or associates on March 1. The grand jury asked Sirica to send it to the committee. Wilson said Sirica's order should be delayed for full review.

Golan Heights gun duel in 10th day

By United Press International

The Golan Heights front exploded into artillery battles between Syrian and Israeli forces for the 10th consecutive day today. The Israeli Knesset debated whether they would affect the coming talks in Washington on disengaging the forces.

The 10-day series of clashes was the longest since Oct. 24 when the United Nations cease-fire halted the October war.

Officer, fireman testify at trial over fiery death

ONTARIO — A Chino police officer and a fireman called to the scene of a fire at White's Garage, 13216 Fifth St. on Oct. 26, 1973 where a 14-year-old youth was fatally burned, testified Wednesday against two Chino men accused of setting the fire.

Chino Police Officer Michael Jinks testified in West Valley Superior Court that he was sent to the Chino garage after the fire and saw Rodney Almaguer, 14, of 13263 Fourth St. standing by a car in the garage. He said the youth appeared to be badly burned.

Jinks said the two defendants, Alexander Jesse Ruiz, 23, of 13122 Roswell Ave. and Steve Edmund Lopez, 20, of 1448 Jacaranda St., and another man Rudy Arellano, 22, of 1337 Mildred St., Chino, were at the scene.

Jinks said Ruiz told him that the youth had simply "entered the bathroom. Closed it. Locked it. Turned on a light switch, and there was a fire or explosion." He said Arellano and Lopez agreed with Ruiz' story.

Two weeks after the fire young Almaguer died of second and third degree burns over his neck, hands, face, and chest at Loma Linda Community Hospital. Arellano, Lopez and Ruiz were arrested on suspicion of murder. The murder charge was later "discharged" against Arellano by the West Valley deputy district attorney's office. Arellano ended up testifying against the defendants in the murder trial.

Chino Fireman Loring Williams testified that he was with the Chino Fire Department rescue squad that responded to the garage fire. Williams said he was treating the burned youth with cold packs when he heard the youth say, "Why me? Why did you do this to me?" several times.

Williams said the defendants and Arellano were standing by another car in front of the young burn victim when he uttered the statements.

Simon sees 75-cent a gallon gas soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Energy chief William E. Simon says gasoline prices may reach 75 cents a gallon this year.

Simon Wednesday told a House Appropriations subcommittee the lifting of the Arab oil embargo had eliminated the need for gasoline rationing, but the price increase imposed on the foreign oil would drive the price of gasoline higher.

He predicted prices could range from 60 to 75 cents per gallon, with the highest prices likely on the East Coast which relies more heavily on imported oil.

She put God to the test and He came through

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — "I asked God to bring me home by 6 p.m. Monday. I needed to know there was that kind of God and the world needs to know."

He answered Mrs. Eunice Kronholm, 47, who told Wednesday of her 82 hours as a kidnap victim.

Mrs. Kronholm, wife of the president of the Drovers State Bank of South St. Paul, was kidnaped Friday while she was scraping ice from her car's windshield outside her home in suburban Lino Lakes, Minn., before going to the beauty shop.

Still shaky from a touch of influenza and an ear infection, she said she screamed when two men wearing ski masks approached her.

Mrs. Kronholm said the two men she came to know as "Jerry and Bill" were so broke they took the $6 spending money she had in her purse when she was kidnaped.

She walked away free three days later when "Jerry" apparently became demoralized by news of the capture a few hours earlier Monday of a man Mrs. Kronholm called "Bill" and the FBI calls James W. Johnson, a 34-year-old from Lakeview, Minn.

The FBI is still looking for "Jerry," but it has recovered all but $10,000 of the $200,000 ransom paid by Mrs. Kronholm's husband, Gunnar Kronholm, 61.

A devout Baptist, she said she believes she came through the ordeal — which included eight hours bound and gagged inside a car trunk—because of prayers by Christians throughout the world and because "I continually felt the presence of God."

During the time she was held, she said, she "continually felt the presence of God. It is my Christian upbringing that I am most thankful for."

She said at the end she "put God to a test."

"The longer it went, the more tense they became," she said of her kidnapers. "When I heard on the radio of the arrest I told Jerry that perhaps Bill had been picked up.

"I said if we left right away, we could go to my husband's bank and get some money for Jerry to leave. He said he didn't want to because he would get caught for sure.

"I didn't want to wait until dark. I knew in my condition I couldn't make it in the dark and cold. So I just told Jerry I was leaving. He followed me for a while, but then I lost him. I tramped for what seemed to be a mile and half through mud to a road.

"I made up my mind that if the first car didn't look like it was going to stop, I would step out in front of it. It did. This nice young man gave me a ride to the supermarket where I called my husband.

"I had a chance to share my faith with both of these men. They couldn't understand how come I wasn't bitter. I told them that I'm a Christian and God has given me the grace to do this."

Man burned in attempt to halt fire

POMONA — Darrell Stotz of 269 Roosevelt Ave. received first degree burns to his neck and chest Wednesday trying to put out a fire in his garage with a garden hose.

Pomona firemen extinguished the fire that destroyed the garage and its contents. Damage is estimated at $4,600.

Stotz was treated and later released from Pomona Valley Community Hospital. The fire apparently started from a discarded cigarette that was left in a couch in the garage.

Another discarded cigarette, also left in a couch, is blamed for a fire Wednesday at the residence of Gary Bishop, 2913 N. Garey Ave., Apt. 6. The occupant wasn't at home when the fire was discovered at 6:30 p.m.

The fire destroyed the couch and did heavy smoke damage to the living room. The damage is estimated at $800.

Knife dropped

Burglary suspect yields to board

ONTARIO — A suspected burglar armed with a knife was apprehended Wednesday afternoon by a board-wielding Ontario man at Auto Craft Enterprises, 522 E. Holt Blvd., police reported.

Kevin Ray Day, 19, of Buena Park, was booked in the the West End jail this morning on suspicion of burglary while armed after he was apprehended by Frida D. Dotson, 21, of Ontario, the son of the owner of Auto Craft Enterprises.

Police said that Dotson drove to his father's business in the afternoon and saw a suspicious person walking from the company office. Dotson went around the office building in an attempt to cut the suspect off, but lost him momentarily. Dotson said he next saw the man in the paint garage inside his father's dune buggy.

Dotson said he asked the man what he was doing at the business. The suspect replied that he was a security guard for the U.S. government and was checking the security of the company. Dotson said the man's story was a lie, because his father had never hired a security guard.

Dotson ordered the man out of the dune buggy. As the suspect got out of the dune buggy, Dotson said, he pulled a knife out of his pocket and opened it. Dotson said he picked up a board and held it in the air telling the suspect to drop the knife. The suspect complied with Dotson's order and dropped the knife. Dotson took the suspect to a nearby bar and called police.

Police investigating the case discovered that the dune buggy had been loaded with numerous mechanics tools and oil. Police said the suspect was probably going to steal the dune buggy and the tools.

Girl suffers broken toes in bus mishap

ONTARIO — An Ontario girl suffered three broken toes Wednesday when a school bus ran over both of her feet on the Chaffey High School parking lot.

Donna Marie Klein, 14, of 1412 E. Alvarado St., was treated at the Kaiser Clinic in Ontario. She suffered two broken toes on her right foot and one broken toe on her left foot, said highway patrolmen.

Richard Lee Brazell of Cucamonga, the bus driver, said he was driving slowly on the parking lot preparing to stop when several students began walking beside the vehicle. He called for them to move back.

As the bus stopped, the girl was pushed against the bus by other students, which caused the right front tire to run over both of her feet, said officers.

Robber hits small market

ONTARIO —A clean-shaven man wearing a blue beanie hat robbed the 7-11 Store at 1051 W. I St. of a small amount of cash Wednesday night.

Police said the robber walked into the store about 7:30 p.m. and pulled a blue-steel revolver from his waistband ordering the clerk, Valentino T. Torres, 19, of Chino, to hand over the cash from the register. The robber, not satisfied with the cash, ordered the clerk to hand over all the change as well.

Police said the robber was described as a Caucasian, 20, 5 feet 10, 140 to 150 pounds, wearing a white coat with brown stripes, blue pants and a blue beanie.

Brucellosis tests turn up positive

Two more in herd may be affected

CHINO — San Bernardino County health officials revealed Wednesday that two more animals in the Alta-Dena Dairy herd here may be infected with brucellosis organisms. The animals are the seventh and eighth cows in the herd to have positive blood tests for the disease.

Six animals were originally found to have brucellosis during routine testing on March 8. Those animals were destroyed and the herd has been under a county quarantine since that time. The dairy has been under orders to pasteurize all raw milk from the herd.

Pasteurization prevents the brucellosis organism from being transmitted to humans. Brucellosis, can cause severe illness, although it is not fatal.

Officials in Los Angeles County warned last week that some raw milk from the Chino herd may have gone on public sale along with raw milk from the dairy's herd in the City of Industry, which is also now under quarantine after the discovery of salmonella bacteria in the milk.

Both salmonella and brucellosis can be contracted by humans beings only by drinking raw milk.

Alta-Dena Dairy, the state's largest distributor of raw milk and raw milk products, is presently under orders to pasteurize all raw milk from both its herds until the diseases are eradicated.

The San Bernardino County Health Department has announced that the Chino herd will be quarantined at least through April 8, when further testing will be performed.

Claremonter hurt in fall

CLAREMONT — Phillip Drew Burnett, 24, who was knocked unconscious late Tuesday night when he fell down a flight of stairs at the Boiler Room, a young adult night club at 415 W. Foothill Blvd., was reported in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Burnett, 966 W. Bonnie Brae Ave., suffered a head injury.

Office machines of FAA stolen

ONTARIO — Burglars pried off a lock of a Federal Aviation Administration trailer office parked near Ontario International Airport at 1130 S. Archiblad Ave. Wednesday and stole office equipment valued at $1,450, police reported.

The burglary was discovered by Pang K. Ng, an Ontario engineer. Police said the burglars took a calculator, an electric typewriter and a manual typewriter.

2 purse-snatchers strike

LA VERNE — Two young men grabbed the bags from two women who were distributing religious literature in the 4700 block of Westside Drive Wednesday morning.

The victims, Carole Barnett, 49, 583 Bonita Ave., San Dimas, and Toni Ward, 34, 639 Delancy Ave., San Dimas, resisted but the bags were wrenched from their grasp by the youths who fled to a waiting car.

Inside one bag, besides regligious pamphlets, was a wallet containing money which belonged to one of the women.

Both bags and the torn-up wallet were found later but the money was gone.

Speaker named for men's meet

SAN DIMAS — Frank Occhiata, assistant to the president of the Perkin-Elmer Corp. of Pomona, will be the noon luncheon speaker for "The Master's Men" at Roady's Restaurant on Friday.

All men in the area who are interested in joining this group of men of the Christian faith who meet each Friday at noon for lunch are invited to attend. Reservations may be made at the restaurant prior to noon Friday.

Woman breaks hip in mishap

CLAREMONT — Maude Truman, 93, who broke her hip Tuesday afternoon in a fall in her home at 613 Northwestern Drive, was reported in fair condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

It's war: the birds vs. the people

GRACEHAM, Md. (UPI) — A showdown is scheduled tonight between residents of this normally peaceful hamlet and the 10 million birds that have been making their life miserable.

Residents of the rural village in the Maryland mountains voted overwhelmingly Wednesday night to try to drive the birds away by using firecrackers, non-lethal clay bombs and sound effects.

The plan will be put into effect beginning at 5:30 p.m. today and officials plan to seal off the area to keep out sightseers. There has been an influx of curiosity seekers because of the town's proximity to Camp David.

The birds have been roosting in pine thickets near the town for several months now and have been harassing pets and livestock, making unpleasant noises, and creating a health hazard because of the abundance of their manure.

Farmers are worried about spring planting, saying the birds will eat all the seeds.

Desperation tactics are being used and some residents have been shooting the birds with small caliber weapons.

Paul Beale, spokesman for the Frederick County health department says the shooting has no effect on the main group of birds. Beale also warned it was dangerous.

'People have been using their guns to keep the birds off their own trees, lawns and houses," said Beale. "That keeps them away from an individual's own property but the birds will just fly away and finally land in Mr. Emrich's pine trees. Emrich owns the 60-acre farm where the birds began roosting.

The birds don't spend all their time there, however, but fly out into the countryside during the day in search of food.

Recalls own long hair

Judge rules Billy return to school

HOUSTON (UPI) — Thanks to a federal judge who said his boyhood hair was over his ears, 5-year-old Billy Epperson can return to the kindergarten class he was expelled from a month ago for wearing his hair long to hide a birth defect.

"To keep this child out of classes would cause irreparable damage to the child," Judge Woodrow Seals said Wednesday in granting a temporary injunction against the suburban Pasadena school district.

Billy, the adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Epperson, was suspended because school officials said his long hair violated the district's grooming code.

But Judge Seals left the bench Wednesday and went to Billy's courtroom chair and examined the boy's hair. He then returned to the bench and said when he was young, the hairstyle was called a "Buster Brown" cut.

"When I was about 5 or 6 I had one," the judge said. "And it came down completely over my ears.'

Billy was born with a misshapen head and his parents said if he wore his hair short, it would uncover the defect and other children might ridicule him.

"I was told Billy's hair was at a length that it disrupted classroom procedure," his mother said. "But as I told my husband, 5-year-olds don't care about the length of hair yet.

"They're still at the stage where they wear their shoes on the wrong feet and walk around with their zippers open."

The Eppersons and the American Civil Liberties Union took the case to federal court after the principal of Golden Acres Elementary school and the Pasadena school board refused to allow him back into class.

The district has a rigid hair and dress code. Boys cannot wear their hair over their ears or to their collar and girls cannot wear skirts shorter than five inches above the knee.

"This young man obviously has several strikes against him," said Dr. Thomas E. Morokyso, a psychologist in an affidavit filed with the Epperson's suit.

"His adoptive parents have made every effort possible to prevent the emotional problems attendant to such difficulties. One of the methods used to prevent the undue ridicule and unkind remarks many children might make concerning such a child has been to allow this child's hair to grow long enough to completely hide his malformed cranium."

The Epperson's class action suit against the Pasadena school district charged that Billy was wrongfully expelled and the act violated the symbolic free speech protected by the First Amendment.

The suit was filed on behalf of all minor male students who wish to wear their hair longer than the length permitted by the hair code.

'Chief' in 'Get Smart' series dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Memorial services will be held Friday for actor Edward Platt, who played the part of "the chief" in the "Get Smart" television series.

Platt, 58, was found dead in his apartment Tuesday by the building manager. He apparently died of a heart attack between Monday night and Tuesday night, police said.

Platt was often cast as a solid, middle-class authority figure, playing district attorneys, judges and stern fathers.

His movie credits included "Rebel Without a Cause" with James Dean, "The Private War of Major Benson, "Storm Center" with Bette Davis and "Illegal" with Edward G. Robinson.

He was born on Staten Island, N.Y., studied music at Juilliard, sang with the Paul Whiteman Band and started in television doing "Uncle Eddie's Birthday Party" on a station in Midland, Tex., 20 years ago.

He was a former officer in the Screen Actor's Guild. He is survived by his widow, Suzanne, and four children. Memorial services are scheduled to be held at All Saints Episcopal Church in Beverly Hills.

Auto rams rear of truck; woman hurt

POMONA — A Pomona woman was injured Wednesday when her compact car struck the rear of a truck-trailer on the San Bernardino Freeway near Via Verde Avenue.

Judith Grimes, 31, of 439 W. Columbia Ave., was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital with facial and knee injuries. Her condition today is termed "fairly good."

Joseph Simpson, 42, of Visalia, driver of the truck, was in a westbound lane going about 15 miles an hour up Kellogg Hill when struck, said highway patrolmen.

Officers said the woman was driving about 55 miles an hour and was apparently distracted, which caused her to take her eyes off the roadway.

Simpson said he felt the jolt but thought the tractor had slipped out of gear. Then he observed the car behind him.

Tornadoes hit in two areas

By United Press International

Spring tornadoes struck near the Texas-Lousiana line and in central Misssissippi Wednesday night and snow fell today over the middle Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region.

Thunderstorms rattled windows from the lower Mississippi Valley to the southern Appalachians.

The national weather service reported one tornado death in the town of Many, La., Winds gusted up to 68 miles per hour at Jackson, Miss., and Lufkin, Tex., and Huntsville, Ala., reported between one and two inches of rain.

Snow accumulated to one inch in portions of the Midwest while Springfield, Mo., reported three inches of snow cover.

Cold air was following the snow and rain, dropping temperatures to freezing and below as far south as northern Texas. Thermometers hovered a few degrees above zero around Lake Superior.

A new cold front moved into the Northern Plains. Weather men forecast continued cold from the Rockies to the northern and middle Atlantic Coast with colder readings from the southern Appalachians to the western Gulf Coast.

Early morning temperatures ranged from zero at Marquette County Airport in Michigan to 75 degrees in New Orleans, La.

A final 'good night, Chet'

BIG SKY, Mont. (UPI) — For 14 years, more than 20 million American viewers heard the nightly television news signed off: "Good Night, David; Good Night, Chet."

Chet Huntley, who was one half of NBC's Huntley-Brinkley Report, died Wednesday at the age of 62, at his home in Big Sky two months after undergoing surgery for lung cancer.

Huntley and David Brinkley formed what became television's most famous co-anchormen, news team in 1956.

Brinkley, in a broadcast tribute Wednesday, signed off: "I say it one last time, 'Good night, Chet.'"

Huntley was a newspaper reporter before he became a broadcast journalist. During his 31-year radio and television career he worked for CBS, ABC and NBC.

His sonorous voice, which Life magazine once said "seemed not so much merely to deliver the news, but to drop it on us as an offending object," became recognizable to millions.

"The noise...the clamoring for attention...the divisions in our society," Huntley said when he retired, "when you deliver it night after night you start feeling almost responsible for it. I'm not running away from things, I'm running away to think."

On the night of July 31, 1970, Huntley bade Brinkley "good night" for the last time amid tributes from his colleagues and an accolade from his chief competitor, Walter Cronkite, who said on his CBS show that evening: "A giant leaves the stage."

Memorial services were scheduled for Sunday at Big Sky and on Tuesday at the NBC Studios in New York.

CHANGED HIS MIND — Bobby Ferguson, 39, didn't want to leave Iowa State Prison, but since his parole, he's convinced he doesn't want to go back. He's spent all but 17 months of his life in institutions.

Centralization of power blamed for Watergate

CHARLOTTESVILLE Va. (UPI) — Centralization of power in the White House was the reason for Watergate, according to a study panel commissioned by the Senate Watergate Committee.

The 12-member panel has recommended "a strict numerical limit on the number of political aides available to the President" and said all other White House staffers should be made "subject to the political activity limitations of the Hatch Act."

The panel, headed by Dr. Frderick C. Mosher, Doherty Professor of government at the University of Virginia, emphasized its aversion to identifying "individual misdeeds of culprits." The panel said there was "an important distinction" between political officers and careerists.

"Insofar as Watergate disclosures are concerned, political officers displayed little appreciation of understanding of the special ethical responsibilities of public service," the report said.

"On the other hand, there is incontrovertible evidence that the career services will discharge assigned duties responsibly and capably when they are responsibly and capably led."

The panel was made up of members of the National Academy of Public Administrators, a non-profit educational and research institution of 160 scholars elected "because of distinguished contributions to public administration."

Other recommendations made to "make future Watergates less likely and improve the effectiveness and credibility of democratic government," included:

—Complete depoliticization of the Justice Department with all personnel placed under the Hatch Act, all attorneys covered by a tenure system and the attorney general precluded from advising the President on political or personal matters.

—Until the Justice department is depoliticized, creation of a permanent special prosecutor...to prosecute malfeasance in high office.

—Joint public and private funding of congressional and presidential elections, with a $25,000 limit on family contributions, and a $10 limit on cash donations.

—Rejection of any changes in the President's term of office, and for any change toward a parliamentary form of government (such as confidence votes).

—Provision of a number of temporary "secretaries without portfolio" to handle special assignments.

—Improvement of the Freedom of Information Act, and continued viligance by Congress, the courts and the public to deal with executive misuse of "national security" classifications and claims of "executive privilege."

Water answer to energy--but 50 years away?

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Scientists who attended the first international conference on utilizing ordinary water to meet the world's energy needs believe the United States may start doing it within the next 50 years.

The most optimistic estimate was that not before the year 2000 could some areas of this country begin converting to the fuel of the future. Some scientists foresaw a more distant dawn for energy generated from the oceans and lakes of the world.

More than 700 delegates from 20 countries gathered here for the three-day conference, sponsored by the University of Miami, which considered the theory that hydrogen, extracted from plain water, is the ultimate fuel that promises mankind an abundance of energy with little pollution.

At concluding sessions the scientists heard reports on the causes of energy crises, and weighed other reports on obstacles that stand in the way of solutions.

Some of the questions raised included:

—Public acceptance of what some people believe to be a dangerous fuel.

—Changes in legal systems ill-suited for exploitation of the ultimate energy source.

—Who would operate the energy systems of tomorrow.

Using the example of hydrogen-powered automobiles, Dr. D. P. Gregory of Chicago's Institute of Gas Technology said a 'chicken and egg' situation can very easily develop in which no manufacturer will develop and market a hydrogen vehicle until fueling facilities are available, and vice versa.

Speaker after speaker warned of what they called the "Hindenberg-hydrogen bomb syndrome" among people who are reminded of the explosion of the giant dirigible Hindenberg and the hydrogen bomb whenever the gas is mentioned as a fuel.

Law professor T. C. Cady of West Virginia University noted that the large quantities of water involved, and the heat that would be generated in breaking down water into its two components, had led many scientists to propose sea-based hydrogen producing plants.

"The threshold question is: Who owns the seas?" Cady said, adding that there was a growing trend toward common international ownership of the high seas.

Reports presented earlier in the conference showed that hydrogen would make automobile engines run more efficiently, and there was no pollution problem because the only product of hydrogen combustion is water.

Turns up after disappearance

Perpetual prisoner likes it outside

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Bobby Ferguson, who has spent all but 17 months of his 39 years in state institutions, has turned up in a home for men here, and vows he won't go back to prison again.

Ferguson gained national attention last December when he asked Gov. Robert D. Ray for a life sentence, but now he wants to remain free.

"I'm getting to like it on the outside," Ferguson said. "I don't think I'll go back. In fact, I know I won't."

Ferguson disappeared two weeks ago from his job as a custodian in Fort Madison. The governor had arranged for the job after Bobby was paroled from his latest stint at the state penitentiary.

Except for a few calls to newsmen, Bobby was not heard from during the past two weeks until he was found working at the door of Faith Mission. His parole officers knew nothing of his whereabouts but now say there will be no problem if Bobby wants to stay in Des Moines.

"I want to stay in Des Moines and abide by my parole," Ferguson said. "I don't anticipate going anywhere."

After being released in the past, Ferguson's usual pattern was to commit a minor crime, call authorities and then wait for them to arrest him so he could be returned to prison, which he considered home.

Ferguson had said he felt secure in prison and that the prison guards and officials were his "friends."

He was born to an inmate mother at the women's reformatory at Rockwell City and spent the first 14 years of his life as a ward of the court in a state hospital.

WILL THEY, OR WON'T THEY — National Zoo officials in Washington are hoping spring weather will make love bloom between Ling-Ling, top, and Hsing-Hsing, the pandas given as gifts by China.

No Russian hug, kiss for Kissinger

LONDON (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger can expect tough going and a cool reception when he visits Moscow next week for top level policy talks with Soviet leaders, Communist diplomats said today.

The Kremlin wants to continue the policy of coexistence of the superpowers but contends that the United States has not lived up to its part of the deal on detente, the agreement for a tension-free cooperation among them, the diplomats said.

Kissinger is to fly to Moscow March 25 for wide-ranging talks which are to pave the way for a visit to the Soviet Union by President Nixon, probably in June.

The three most difficult problems on which tough going is expected, according to the sources, will be the Middle East, the question of new nuclear arms curbs and trade and finance.

Communist diplomats consider there has been insufficient concrete development on the detente front of the two super powers in past months. American progress in the Middle East has evidently caused jealousy and suspicion in Moscow where the Kremlin reportedly feels its position in the Arab world has been undermined and its standing, especially with Egypt, compromised.

The Soviets also consider themselves let down over promised large U.S. trade and credit deals. The sources said Soviet leaders have given vent to their disappointment by veiled threats lately that they will look elsewhere, notably West Europe, for alternatives, although they appear as anxious as ever to win American technological assistance and financial backing through extensive loans.

Moscow was also described as angry with delays and alleged obstacles from the West to their much coveted summit on their projected European security deal that would sanction Russia's post-war territorial gains in Europe.

Moscow can be expected to take a tough line on new, more sweeping nuclear arms curbs, the sources said. Little progress has so far been made at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) in Geneva with Russia pushing determinedly to catch up with, or even outpace the American lead in multiple warheads.

HOLDS ON TO DEAR LIFE — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Auito and son, Dino, 12, are happy at home in Warren, Mich., as Dino recovers from deadly illness. Only last week he was in a coma dying from Reye's syndrome for which there is no known cure. Doctors replaced six to eight pints of the boy's blood.

Gulf reduces jet, other fuel prices

HOUSTON (UPI) — Gulf Oil Co. Monday reduced prices for jet fuel, kerosene and No. 2 distillate and residual fuel oils.

"Ending the onerous crude allocation program will also provide the American consumer with more products as we will be able to refine more gasoline and jet fuel in our own, more efficient refiners," said Gulf President Z. D. Bonner.

The reductions more than offset March 1 increases and become effective immediately, he said.

Bonner said lifting of the Arab embargo should relieve Gulf of the obligation to sell much of its crude oil to competitors under the government's mandatory allocation program.

Gulf had attributed the March 1 price increases in part to increased costs imposed by that allocation plan.

Even for pandas, we hope

In the spring, fancy turns to love

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) —With the arrival of spring, can love for Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing, the giant pandas at the National Zoo be far behind?

The pandas, gifts to the United States from the People's Republic of China, have reached breeding age. Zoo officials are cautious. No panda has been born in captivity outside of China.

"We are very, very hopeful this time," said Mrs. Billie Hamlet, public information director at the zoo. "It looks very good".

Mrs. Hamlet said both animals are healthy and there has been a great deal of interaction between them.

"They are just as interested in each other now as they were when they arrived," she said.

There was an unsuccessful attempt to breed the two pandas last fall when Ling-Ling, the female, came into heat. That try failed, mainly because the male, Hsing-Hsing, "just didn't know what it was all about."

"He tried, but he was just too young," said Mrs. Hamlet of the male panda, who is six months younger than Ling-Ling.

But if Ling-Ling feels romantic in April, as expected, zoo officials say Hsing-Hsing probably will act differently because he is now three years old. Mrs. Hamlet said if the breeding attempt is successful, the baby panda might be born sometime between late August and late September. Zoo officials plan to provide a breeding place where either can escape from the other if trouble develops and they become violent. Their loveplay can be quite rough, said Mrs. Hamlet.

"But we don't think anything more will happen than a lover's spat," she said.

To live in U.S.

Dissident Litvinov to visit in Europe

VIENNA (UPI) — With an American visa in his pocket, Soviet dissident Pavel Litvinov set out today to see friends in Europe before going to his new home country, the United States.

The 33-year-old grandson of the late Josef V. Stalin's foreign minister planned to leave Vienna, his first stop in the West, for Rome to see personal friends, said an official of the United Hias Service, an American Jewish relief organization.

The chemical research engineer was granted a visa by Soviet authorities to leave Russia Monday with his family.

Tuesday afternoon—after only one day in Vienna—the Litvinovs received immigrant visas for the United States, the Jewish official said. U.S. diplomats said the embassy had earlier been instructed by the state department to give Litvinov's application all possible consideration.

Litvinov, his wife, Maya, their four-year-old daughter, Larissa and her 12-year-old son from a former marriage, Dima, will also visit the Netherlands before leaving Europe, the official said.

Litvinov so far has refused to meet journalists. He was whisked away from Vienna airport immediately after his arrival aboard a Soviet commercial airliner flight Monday afternoon. Officials said Litvinov wanted to respect the neutral status of this Alpine country and, therefore, did not want to give any statement.

"But he will talk freely as soon he is out of the country", an official said.

Litvinov is the second dissident to be given an exit visa in the last month.

How pilots fled jails

It's really a fact the clothing of British pilots during World War II was outfitted with secret gadgets. To help said pilots, if shot down, escape from German prisons. Front of a trouser button, for instance, could be unscrewed to expose a miniature compass. Inside one shoelace was a sawtooth wire to cut through steel bars. One playing card in an official deck peeled open to reveal a scale map of Europe. No, these weren't nonsense notions dreamed up by the fiction boys. They were government issue. Quite real. Designed by one Major Clayton Hutton. And the record shows they helped about 3,000 British prisoners get free.

Magic

Q. "I read where that great magician Blackstone was able to stop his pulse at will. How . . .?"

A. Nothing to it. Anybody can. You, too. By putting a wad of cloth two inches thick under your armpit, then pressing hard against it.

Q. "Is it ethical for a psychiatrist to make love to a patient?"

A. No, the American Psychiatric Association now says that's bad. Very bad. Not surprising. What's surprising is it's a fairly recent decree by that august body.

Q. "Which movie has made more money, 'The Godfather' or 'Gone with the Wind'?"

A. "The Godfather." It had grossed $81,500,000 at last erport. "Gone With the Wind" had grossed $77.030,000.

Seals

Little seals have to be taught how to swim.

Most recent statistics indicate that 40 per cent of those brides between ages 13 and 19 are expecting on he wedding day.

Record shows that most of the man-eating lions in Africa — and it has been documented that there've been quite a many — tend to be slightly smaller than other lions.

A Southern California lady reports she returned to the parking lot to find a front fender on her car all bashed in. And a note with a telephone number under the windshield wiper. She called. It was "Dial a Prayer."

Have you ever met anybody with photograph skin? Neither have I. But such there be. Medical records take note of several such extra sensitive souls. When a photograph negative is placed upon said skin under strong sunlight, it actually turns out a sort of contact print on the skin itself.

Stevenson, Burditt winners in primary

CHICAGO (UPI) — Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson III and Republican George Burditt, as expected, Wednesday were declared winners of their parties' nominations to contest the U.S. Senate seat now held by Stevenson.

With 7,661 of the state's 11,312 precincts reporting from Tuesday's primary, Stevenson led his Democratic opponent, Dakin Williams, 552,197 to 120,059. Burditt had a 239,816 to 46,745 lead in the Republican primary over perennial Chicago candidate Lar "America First" Daly.

In the only other contested statewide race, Harry Page led Jeanette Mullen in the Republican state treasurer's race. Mullen refused to concede.

Incumbent Democratic Treasurer Alan J. Dixon was unopposed in his bid for nomination to another term.

In the six counties around Chicago, the fate of a proposed Regional Transit Authority was uncertain. With portions of the Chicago vote missing and large gaps in some outlying counties' totals, the vote was nearly even for and against the RTA proposal.

The RTA question had a razor-thin margin of 526,557 yes votes and 494,877 no votes.

Voting was light around the state, with a feud between Gov. Daniel Walker and Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley providing the only sparkle.

$27,000 fire truck stolen

NEW CUMBERLAND, W.Va. (UPI) — A thief stole the Cumberland Volunteer fire Department's $27,000 fire truck Tuesday.

A 90-minute search by the sheriff's department located the truck behind a tavern at nearby Chester.

Authorities said the truck was in good shape except that two oxygen masks, valued at $600 each, were missing, along with a hat and coat.

Stein film to be shown at Pomona

CLAREMONT — "When This You See, Remember Me," a movie on the life and times of Gertrude Stein, will be shown at 7:30 tonight in Seaver Auditorium, Pomona College. Admission is free.

The film includes interviews with Virgil Thompson, John Cage, Phillip Barry and Jacques Lipschitz.

The film will be shown under the auspices of the Pomona College Public Events Committee.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Opera for lunch.

That's the latest musical portion being served by the San Francisco Opera—and so far audiences are eating it up.

By the fourth of 14 "Brown Bag Operas" scheduled through the spring, the 1,000-seat Veterans Auditorium was sold out to a lunchtime crowd which paid 50 cents to see a 45-minute performance.

Most of the audience—which ranged from a 2-year-old who occasionally competed with the singers to elderly pensioners getting opera at a price they could afford—brought lunches and ate them during the show.

For those who didn't, bags containing a sandwich and a small box of raisins were on sale for a dollar.

Kurt Herbert Adler, general director of San Francisco Opera, said the "idea is to take opera to people while they are relaxing and enjoying themselves" and to give young local singers some performing experience.

He said "Brown Bag Opera" was similar to programs conducted for many years in Europe, especially at art festivals, and that he decided to go ahead following the success of lunchtime chamber music concerts in Milwaukee and Minneapolis.

The singers ordinarily perform for other programs of the San Francisco Opera.

Paying toll on warrants

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — What are the prospects of a person who bought American Telephone & Telegraph warrants (NYSE) at $8 and $10 coming out profitably on the deal? — M. F.

A — Two technical factors are at work here: the warrants' exercise price and the period of time left prior to the expiration of the warrants. As the price of American Telephone common stock has approached and exceeded exercise price—in this case $52 per share—the premium at which the warrants trade (the amount in excess of exercise value) has tended to narrow.

Now, with the warrant nearing its maturity date, its trading value has diminished. The Telephone warrant will expire May 15, 1975, 14 months from now. Late in November, when the common was $46, the warrant commanded a 22 per cent premium over exercise value while currently the premium is about 8.5 per cent, despite the 13 per cent advance in share price.

On a more fundamental basis, a continuation of the uptrend in both earnings and dividends should be reflected in the price of Telephone common. At present, the shares are trading 10.5x fiscal 1973 earnings and 9.8x estimated 1974 results.

An upward assessment of the multiple to 12x could lift the share price to about $63. If this were to occur, the warrant would be worth $11, plus premium. However, in a sidewise or declining market, earnings multiples tend to shrink rather than expand Thus, although your chances of coming out even are dependent on a more vigorous market than we have recently witnessed, I would hold.

Q — Should we hold or sell 1,577 Selected American Shares? We bought 893 shares at $10.21 9 years ago. In the first year we took out $1,800 in dividends.— L. W.

A — Although your total return on this investment averages an unspectacular 5 per cent annually, I would not advise redeeming the shares at this time. The fund has a well-balanced portfolio, with over 25 per cent of assets in bonds, preferreds and cash. If you are in need of income, you should once again take distributions in cash.

Q—I presently have the opportunity to invest in Loomis-Sayles Capital Development Fund. Would you give your opinion of this fund?—P.L.

A—If your investment objective is capital appreciation—growth—over the long-term, then this fund is a suitable choice for you. In the 10-year period through 1973, Loomis Sayles Capital Development increased its asset value 13% as compared with 74% for an all-fund average. In 1973, assets dropped 12% versus 21% for the average fund.

At the 1973 year end, assets were 90% invested in a diversified list of 40 good quality common stocks, with emphasis on health care, office equipment and oil and gas issues. The balance of the portfolio was in short-term notes, Treasury bills and cash.

Q—I am 71, single and retired. My stocks have been bought over the last 30 years with any extra money I was able to set aside. Would you review my portfolio and make suggestions to increase my income?—B.R.

A—Your eight holdings worth $18,000 return $1,000 annually, a yield of 5.4%. The bulk of your securities should be held for either their generous returns or above-average appreciation potential. However, Standard Oil of Ohio (NYSE) and Utah Idah (ASE) should be sold. The indicated dividend on the latter issue provides only a 2.9% yield, a rate which may be bettered in other issues. Sohio is also a low-yield stock, currently paying $1.36 annually, a 2.2% return.

I would also accept the loss of National Bellas Hess (ASE). This discount operator has reported deficits in four of the past five years and the current fiscal year appears to be heading in the same southerly direction. Your 42 shares of Newmont Mining $4.50 cv. preferred (NYSE) should be retained for appreciation despite the modest 4.4% return. Proceeds from the sales may be reinvested in Allegheny Power System (NYSE) yielding 7.8%.

Q — In addition to $186 monthly from Social Secutiy, I live on dividends from investments. My holdings are: 1,000 Baltimore Gas & Electric (NYSE), 100 American Brands (NYSE), 100 Control Data pfd. (NYSE) and 200 General Public Utilities (NYSE). Should I make any changes? —F.V.

A — Your holdings world $36,200 yield $3,000 or 8.3 per cent. Although American Brands, at 6.6 per cent, returns less than your other holdings, I would not advise replacing this unless you must increase your income. The January increase in the dividend was the seventh in as many years. As of the first of April, your Social Secutiy will be increased 7 per cent to $199.

Panel urges city help turn theater into cultural hub

POMONA — Enthusiasm is running high for the reopening of the United Artists theater downtown as a community center for the performing arts, says a report approved by the Cultural Arts Commission and forwarded to the City Council for review.

The 24-page report, put together by a commission subcommittee headed by Mrs. JoAnn Leimbach, advances a plan to renovate the theater and suggests a target date to begin operations in the fall of this year.

According to the report, reopening and operation of the theater, closed since 1972, is within the reach of the community with the help of the City Council.

"At present, most of Pomona's cultural talent, because of lack of facilities, must perform or find their outlets in other communities," Dr. Robert L. Daivs, commission chairman, said in a report.

The only existing public facility in the city large enough to accommodate a large gathering is the school district's auditorium, which has a seating capacity for 750. The United Artists presently has 1,200 seats.

"Pomona's cultural lag in the promotion and support of the cultural arts has worked to the detriment of Pomona citizens and its vitality as a place of cultural importance," said Dr. Davis.

The council would be requested to advance $36,000 for the first period of operation, from July of this year to June 30, 1975.

That amount includes $12,000 for lease payments for 12 months, as the council also would be requested to lease the theater for one year with option to purchase.

Included in the remainder is $12,000 for hiring a theater manager, and another $12,000 for working capital, for refurbishing and the reopening.

The council in turn would enter into an agreement with a newly created nonprofit corporation that would be run by an executive committee.

This committee would include representatives of the city staff, the commission, businesses, major performing groups, the theater manager and other citizens.

Among the responsibilities of the executive committee would be to seek federal, state and foundation grants to permit operation of the theater to continue.

The committee would oversee the renovation and operation of the theater, coordinate theater-sponsored events, would hire the theater manager and also would be responsible for soliciting donations.

For the first period of operation, according to the report, $10,000 could be raised through a "Founders' Circle (donations of $500 each), $2,500 in seat endowments ($25 each), and $25,000 could be furnished in donated labor and materials.

Among the theater's proposed users are professional groups, symphony orchestras, the Cal Poly Music Department, local schools, Valley Community Theater, commercial groups, the West End Opera, the Valley Concert Dance Theater and the parks and recreation department.

The commission appointed the subcommittee last December after receiving a written request signed by eight citizens using the conversion of the United Artists into a community theater.

The subcommittee's report includes a "typical" calendar of events, estimates by Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes on what it would take to bring the building up to standards, and other information.

In his recommendation to the council, City Administrator Jerrold R. Gonce asked that the report be considered as part of the 1974-75 budget.

"This recommendation is due to the fact that we have only a six-month experience and utilization of reserves that could be totally diminished by the end of the (present) fiscal year," said Gonce.

The council last Monday agreed to a joint meeting with the commission, possibly in April, to go over the report.

YMCA drive falls $5,000 short of goal

POMONA — Final figures announced by the Pomona Valley YMCA show that the central and San Dimas-La Verne branches surpassed their goals during the recent fund raising drive and that overall the YMCA achieved 95 per cent of its goal.

A total of $95,961 was raised during the month-long drive, falling about $5,000 short of the overall goal of $101,500.

A breakdown of funds raised by each branch of the YMCA showed that the central branch raised $38,864, while the San Dimas-La Verne branch raised $14,050, both exceeding their individual goals.

Other branches fell short of their goals. Diamond Bar-Walnut raised $10,754, Claremont brought in $13,685, while the metropolitan staff raised $18,608.

Planner enters council race in Claremont

CLAREMONT — Mrs. Elenaor Cohen, city planning commissioner, has filed her nomination papers for the special City Council election June 6 to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Craig McManigal.

According to Deputy City Clerk Barbara Hallamore, three other persons have taken out nomination papers but have not returned them.

Papers have been taken out for city planning commissioner William McLaughlin, Joseph Armendariz and Teena Boyk.

Mrs. Hallamore said that candidates have until noon, March 28 to file nomination papers an economic disclosure form at city hall. Mrs. Hallamore said that the disclosure form may be filed at the county clerk's office at Pomona.

Boys Republic, school district team up to help troubled youths

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff writer

POMONA — Grass roots involvement is the thrust of the delinquency prevention program here under the auspices of Boys Republic and Pomona Unified School District.

For the first time in Boys Republic history, it has moved into a joint effort with a public institution and established Project Upstream. Operating in pilot form at Marshall and Palomares junior high schools, the program is coordinated by Pete Burns and Jo-Ann Bridges from offices at 553 N. Gibbs St.

Burns said the program is relatively simple: "to get people involved" in work with troubled youth. He stressed the importance of reaching more than just the troubled child, and the need of "touching bases" with that child's parents and siblings, school officials, community agencies and others who will come into contact with the child.

Candace Matthews, one of three Cal Poly social welfare majors serving their internship in the delinquency curbing project, aptly describes the feelings of a child in trouble for whatever reason.

"He's saying something's wrong with US, not just me. We've got to work with the family because it's all tied into the family. You can't work with the community until you get the family together," she said.

All agree that the grass roots is and must be the family unit.

The staff is currently working with 20 young people in the program.

The referral method is used with the counseling or administrative officials at each school contacting Burns and Miss Bridges. They in turn arrange a meeting with the student to discover, first of all, if the child is willing to help himself.

"We don't criticize the kids in terms of good and bad. We try to point out that a person's behavior can affect other people. If your behavior is affecting your parents, school officials or other kids in a negative way, then perhaps you should consider altering that behavior. We try to get people to take a look at that," Burns stated.

If the child indicates a willingness to participate in a program of interaction with his parents, counselors at the Delinquency Prevention Center, and various community liaisons, the next step is to accept him into the program and contact the family, Burns added.

"We then try to reach out and fit ourselves into the problem and see how we would feel. We ask 'can we help?' " he noted.

The "we" refers to himself, Miss Bridges, counselors Miss Matthews, Karon Gordon, Merle Reed, community liaison, and Elizabeth Green.

Supt. Robert Wentz of the Pomona School District said "the counseling, teaching and administrative staffs have not been able to get through to these children for whatever reason. We are looking for alternatives and view this project as a positive alternative. It represents the need for a more 1-to-1 relationship."

The "action" quintet is joined in meeting the common objectives of diverting young people from the juvenile justice system; reducing acting out behavior; altering society's reaction to problem youth; and involving reformed juvenile offenders in helping others.

Miss Gordon stressed that parents and community people can be vitally instrumental in reaching those objectives. It is not essential, she said, to possess a college degree in order to help youth. Any average citizen could help by merely teaching kids how to apply for a job, she said, from the completion of a simple application to "discovering their best assets and selling them to a potential employer," she added.

Clarence Webb of the City of Pomona's community relations department and a member of the project's liaison committee emphasized that a "well-informed parent can be a valuable resource person in the community. He can provide information on what's happening in order to deal with boredom of kids with nothing to do."

The liaison committee represents a cross-section of community specialists. Besides Webb, the members are Mel Brown, assistant director of Project Span at Cal Poly; Burnett Cohen, career education specialist and Neighborhood Youth Corps coordinator, Pomona schools; Ray Thomas, director of secondary education, Pomona; and Dr. Sandra Goldstein of Tri-City Mental Health.

The project is funded for three years with 80 per cent supplied by the Boys Republic board of trustees. The Rosenberg Foundation pays for the 20 per cent research and evaluation component.

EASY TO HANDLE

Lloyd Mosher, thanks to an optical illusion, looks like he's about to tuck his Fiat dragster under his arm. The car really is small, however, and is drawing a lot of attention at southland car shows. The car is being featured this month in three national magazines.

Pomona briefs

City candidates to visit Lincoln PTA

POMONA — Carl Jackson, Georgia Grove and Thomas Hughes, all candidates for the Pomona City Council, will be guest speakers at the Lincoln School PTA meeting tonight at 8.

The meeting will be held in the school auditorium. Each candidate will be allowed 10 minutes to talk on major issues. A question and answer period will follow.

The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Ganesha musical in repeat performance

POMONA — Drama students at Ganesha High School have scheduled another performance of the musical "Fantasticks" at 8 p.m. Friday in Room 74.

Initial performances were March 14, 15 and 16.

Eight students are in the cast. Three musicians play accompaniment.

Tickets are $1.25 with an associated student body card, $1.50 without a card, and $1.75 for adults.

Physical education program offered

POMONA — A special physical education program for children from 5 to 13 will be held at the Pomona Valley YMCA starting Saturday.

The class is for youths with perceptual and conceptual difficulties and who are easily distracted due to hyperactivity or emotional problems.

The class will meet each Saturday for ten weeks from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Cost will be $15 per child. The course will be instructed by Heather Moore.

For further information, persons may call 623-6433.

Racer costs $8,000 and tops 100 m.p.h.

POMONA — You don't expect a 1958 Fiat to cost $8,000.

Nor would you expect it to be capable of speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour.

Lloyd Mosher's little car does both, however, and that has spurred enough interest in the drag racing set to prompt three magazines, Hot Rod, Volkswagen Greats and Street Rodder, to feature the Pomona residents car in their March issues.

Mosher, a 27-year-old bachelor, races the car several times a month at Irwindale Raceway or Orange County Raceway. The little Fiat is powered by a Volkswagen engine. It weighs only 1,235 pounds.

The real difference between Mosher's Fiat and most drag race cars, however, is its appearance. In the two car shows it has been entered in, at the Orange Show in San Bernardino and at a show in Long Beach, the car has been awarded first place trophies.

"It's something different," explains Mosher, who is a mechanic at the Catron Porshe-Audi dealership in Pomona.

"Kids are really attracted by it."

Bright red with a polished aluminum interior, the little car, quite appropriately, sports a chrome wind-up key.

Vacancies in astrology class

POMONA — The parks and recreation department still has openings for a 10-week, introductory class in astrology Mondays at the Ganesha Park Community Center.

Sabrinah Millstein, a licensed astrologer, will conduct the classes from 7:30 to 9 p.m. There is a $20 registration fee per person.

Mrs. Millstein is a teachers and director at the First Temple of Astrology in Los Angeles and is a member of the International Society of Astrological Research, the Professional Astrologers, Inc., and the American Federation of Astrologers.

The class includes the interpretation and understanding of the signs, planets, houses and aspects. Students will be taught the mathematics for setting up a chart.

If enough interest is shown, a class for intermediate students will be started, officials said.

April 9 is deadline for absentee voters

POMONA — April 9 is the deadline for obtaining absentee ballots for the April 16 special city election, City Clerk Larry Thomas advises.

The city clerk's office is open weekdays from 8:15 a.m. to 5:15 p.m.

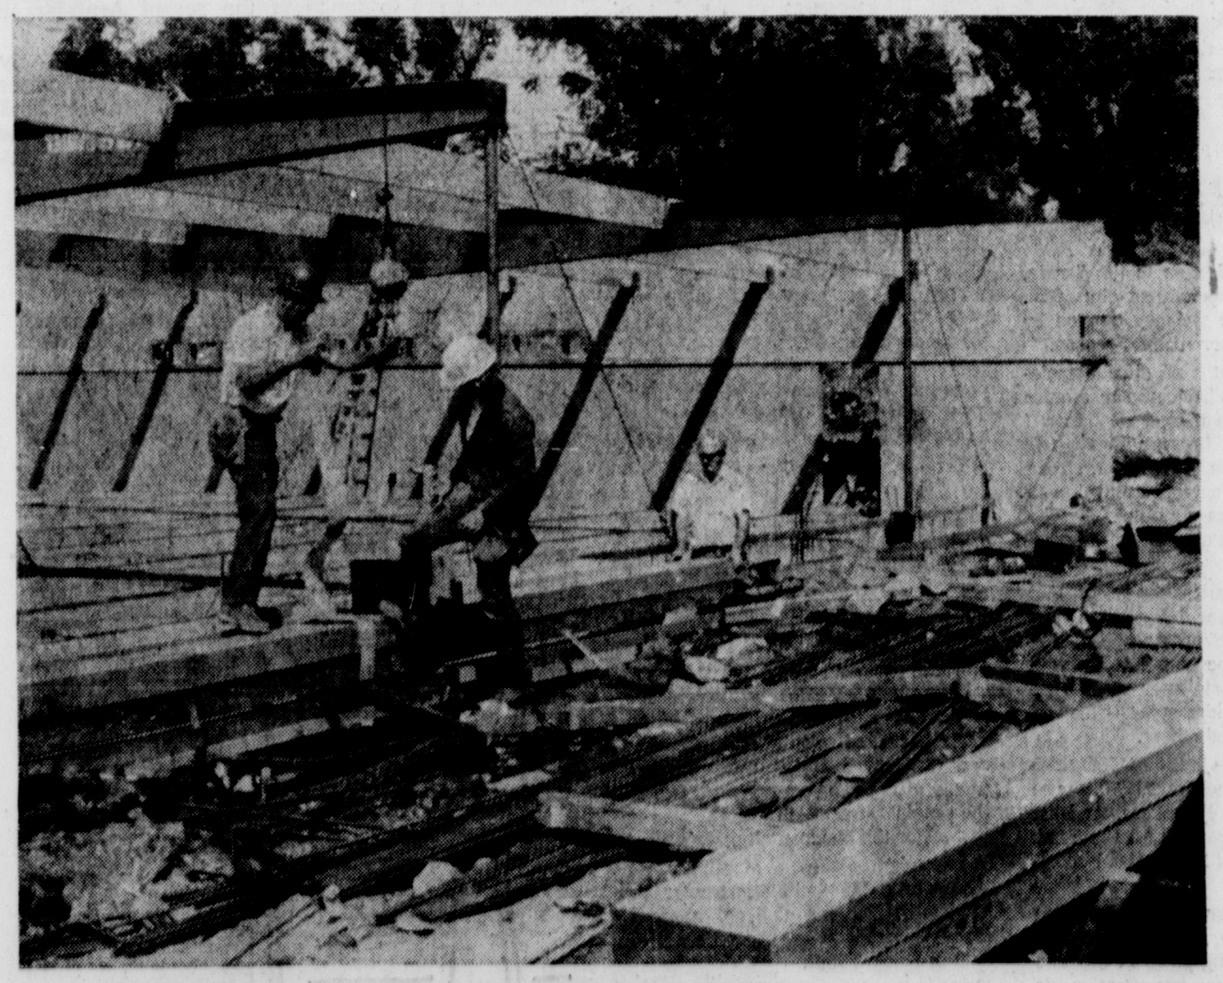
The municipal election is being held to fill a City Council vacancy in the First District and for a minor City Charter revision. Three persons are running for council, Mrs. Georgia Grove, Thomas Fisher Hughes and Carl Jackson.

Volunteers needed to serve in La Verne

LA VERNE — This city is looking for volunteers to serve as commissioners.

There are two openings on the Planning Commission, and one on the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Those who are interested are asked to call Mayor Mike Morales or city Manager George Caswell at the City Hall.



LIBRARY GOING UP

Workers unload 6 by 16-inch, 26-foot-long wooden beams for the new county library on Harvard Avenue, between Bonita Avenue and First Street, Claremont. Contract for the $967,890 library was awarded in December to Steed Bros. Construction Co., Alhambra. The old county library was razed to make way for the 22,910-square foot building. Citizens are using a temporary library at Griswold's.

Palomares groups plan garage sale

POMONA — Palomares Junior High School students and PTA members will hold a garage sale at the school Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There will be a variety of items for sale, including homemade cookies with punch and coffee.

EDITORIAL

Opinion

The momentum of impeachment

The question is no longer "What did the President know and when did he know it" but whether the sheer momentum of the ponderous impeachment process may not now have passed the point of no return.

If so, even the significant statement by Sen. Sam Ervin in Cleveland the other day that testimony before his Watergate investigating committee "indicated to me the President had not committed an impeachable offense" may have no effect.

Even President Nixon's complete and unqualified cooperation with the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry, a co-operation he is steadily being forced into despite counterattacks from the White House, may be too late to stem the tide.

Not only have too many things been set in motion, not only has popular confidence in the President eroded to about the lowest point possible, but the very idea of impeachment has been talked up and down across the nation for so many months that it is no longer as scary and unthinkable as it once was. Indeed, it more and more appears that both for the President's sake as well as the country's, a formal, full-scale impeachment hearing may be the only way to settle this issue once and for all.

It is not just Watergate that the President cannot shake off his back. Other matters are contributing to the deterioration of his position.

Inflation, particularly in the basic necessity of food and fuel along with shortages are rightly or wrongly being laid at the door of the White House. People are fed up with a seemingly endless stream of crises and bad news, and while the responsibility for this scarcely constitutes an impeachable offense on the part of the President, it is this souring mood of the public which, more than anything else, will bring the nation to the brink of impeachment.

One other thing could provide the final push over the edge. That is the dark hint of Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., that when the findings of the joint congressional inquiry into President Nixon's finances are revealed, they will be more damaging to him even than Watergate.

So great may be the disgust of Americans that even if the President is cleared of any deliberate fraud on his income tax returns, the demand for his impeachment or resignation may become irresistible.

It will all have begun with Watergate, but in the end, Watergate will have been only one of the factors making the year 1974 one of the most traumatic in the nation's history.

Carpoolmanship

The following rules for car pool drivers and passengers have been suggested by the Colorado Interstate Corp. to its employes. Although the rules are not officially endorsed by the company, it is hoped that they may make for safer and more pleasant travel for those who carpoolit to and from work.

Drivers: All seats must be kept free of bubble gum, diapers, dog hair, soda bottles, beer cans and other trash.

The driver will have exclusive responsibility for all conversations with police officers and all fines resulting therefrom.

Passengers: Cigar and pipe smokers may chew all they like, but lighting up is prohibited.

"Brown baggers" will be limited to 50 cubic inches of space. Sandwiches of limburger cheese, onions, raw or cured fish must be carried in sealed containers.

Passengers will refrain from distracting the driver except in emergencies such as, (a) car with flashing red light sneaking up from behind, (b) lighted cigarette has just disappeared between seat cushions, (c) wheels smoking due to driving with parking brake on, (d) driver has just dozed off.

Long lines

Long lines are a fact of life today.

Those pointed hopefully and fretfully at a gas station are the champs. But they have competition now.

The Post Office is the latest goal.

So far as we know there is no danger of rationing the new 10 cent first class and 13 cent air mail stamps — nor even the now especially useful 2 centers — and the postal windows don't close down in your face because the supply is gone. Furthermore, before too long we'll all be caught up in our stocks of stamps and the lines will become more normal.

If only that could happen at the gas station!

Thought for today

A good wife who can find? She is far more precious than jewels. She looks well to the ways of her household; and does not eat the bread of idleness. Her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praises her. — Proverbs 31:10,27,28.

SEC inquires into steel merger

WASHINGTON — The Securities and Exchange Commission has opened a criminal inquiry into the peculiar merger of two big steel companies whose principals later kicked in more than $100,000 to help re-elect President Nixon.

The merger of National and Granite City steel companies had been fiercely opposed by trustbusters at the Justice Department. Nevertheless, then-Attorney General John Mitchell, with quiet White House backing, let it go through without so much as an explanation.

Hanna Mining holds a huge interest in National and, therefore, benefitted financially from the merger. Significantly, Hanna's able attorney, H. Chapman Rose, is now helping Nixon with his tax problems.

Rose's son, Jonathan, has also worked as an assistant to Peter Flanigan, the White House ambassador-in-residence to big business, who played a backstage role in the steel merger.

Hanna's chairman, Gilbert Humphrey, who is also a director of National, has additional ties to the White House. His dad, the late George Humphrey, served as treasury secretary when Nixon was Vice President. Both Humphreys have been strong Nixon backers.

The other beneficiary of the merger, Granite City, is represented in Washington by the Collier, Shannon, Rill and Edwards law firm. One of the partners, Robert Collier, has been an effective Nixon fundraiser.

We have also been able to trace over $100,000 to the 1972 Nixon campaign from Hanna, National and Granite City directors and associates.

Now the SEC, according to knowledgeable sources, is poking into the merger. Here are the facts of the complicated case:

Since 1956, the Justice Department has beaten back steel mergers because the industry's overconcentration was causing inflationary prices and sluggish production. Nevertheless, the top four steel corporations controlled 54 per cent of the market in 1971, causing some economists to urge that the industry be broken up into smaller companies.

Yet exactly the opposite began to take place as the fourth-ranking company, National, and the 11th-ranking company, Granite City, began talking about merging. Even as they were negotiating, Nixon called for a "competitive spirit" to make America stronger economically.

The President's public statement turned out to be mere camouflage, however, for his Administration's private actions. Behind the scenes, National and Granite City officials began a series of secret meetings with Mitchell, Flanigan and former Commerce Secretary and Nixon fundraiser Maurice Stans.

The steel men concede that they pressed their case for the merger in Washington, though they insist the meetings with Stans were "general" in nature.

So far, the SEC, whose investigation is still in a preliminary phase, has reached no conclusion on White House involvement in the merger. Flanigan told us his memory of the steel meetings was vague. Rose failed to return our calls.

Footnote: Ralph Nader and his aide, Mark Green, smelled a rat in the merger nine days after it occurred. They tried in vain to get an explanation from Mitchell. Then a St. Louis Post-Dispatch reporter, Dana Spitzer, did a brilliant job of digging out the early facts in the case.

ABLE AMERICAN: The foreign aid program, whose blundering overseas gave its representatives the nickname "Ugly Americans," offered refrigerators to the Eskimos, built sawmills in countries where there were no forests and shipped toothpaste to nations whose people had no toothbrushes.

But last September, the Nixon Administration persuaded Dan Parker, head of the Parker Pen Company, to take charge of foreign aid. Parker impressed Congress with his background and intelligence.

Since his takeover, he has begun quietly to straighten out the problem-plagued agency. It is too early yet to pronounce his reforms successful. But increasingly, the Ugly American is becoming known as the Able American.

Or, as one old-time bureaucrat, referring to the cumbersome agency, told us: "The monster has been harnessed."

Soviet justice and ours on trial

Russia sounds ruthless.

Two Soviet citizens, for selling building materials and fertilizer on the black market, sentenced to death. Two Soviet citizens, for leaving the fruit out of the "fruit juice" they manufactured, executed by a firing squad.

To us, Soviet intolerance sounds inhuman. To them, our system with protection for the rights of wrongdoers sound absurd. Both systems are on trial, theirs and ours; representative government versus dictatorship.

Theoretically, the Soviet system should eradicate crime by removing the reasons for it. Obviously it is less than a total success because Russia has published no criminal statistics since 1928.

When violent crimes surface in the Soviet Union, they are blamed on "innate mental defects" of certain individuals. The "defective individuals" are promptly eliminated.

While Alexander Solzhenitsyn has been focusing world attention on Stalin-era political persecution in Russia, our diplomats, correspondents, visiting artists and American tourists return from Russia to confirm that the streets of Soviet cities are safer than are our own.

Any person may walk alone in the "toughest sections" of Moscow and other large Soviet cities without fear of murder, mugging, rape or even molestation.

And where Russia executes or expels political dissenters, Soviet leaders point with derision at Northern Ireland where dissent is so out of hand that the safety of all is in jeopardy. Former Yippie leader Jerry Rubin wrote an open letter to the kidnapers of Patricia Hearst, urging them not to kill her.

While obviously sympathetic to the aims and efforts of the Symbionese Liberation Army, he said to kill the hostage "would outrage human beings everywhere," could trigger "a right-wing crackdown in the United States."

If the American tradition of tolerance is grotesquely abused, if the leniency of our judicial system is inadequate to turn the onrushing tide of lawlessness, if deference to legalistics perverts the purposes of the Bill of Rights, if the "freedom system" is inadequate to deal with those who misuse freedom to menace others and get away with it, then inevitably, eventually the "freedom system" will be modified in favor of less freedom, more restraint.

Ninety persons we know of have faced a firing squad in Russia in three years. But six or eight people are shot to death in New York City every day. Forty of the 90 executed in Russia were "revolutionaries." We don't shoot revolutionaries; we invite them to our universities to speak.

So if revolutionaries who've had their way in the U.S.A. for so long now figure they can get away with kidnaping, is it their fault — or ours?

Suicide is questionable

I wish to congratulate you on your editorial in Sunday's paper — "Suicide Unlike Bill Knowland."

Many of us, who knew William Fife Knowland and worked closely with him, will agree with the thought expressed in your editorial. We cannot believe that a man of Knowland's firmness and character would have committed suicide. And how could a deputy sheriff determine, as quoted in news dispatches, that Knowland had willfully shot himself, since (according to the news reports), the gun was found in the water of the Russian River and his body partially in the river. The water and mud would have possibly destroyed fingerprints on the gun. And since Knowland was apparently in good spirits during the centennial celebration of his Oakland Tribune only hours before his death, and no will was found, the suicide theory seems highly questionable.

I first met Knowland in 1940 when I was employed to publicize the appearance of Wendell Willkie, the Republican Presidential candidate, at a rally in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Knowland, a Republican National Committeeman, was a guest of honor. As an outgrowth of this meeting, Knowland employed me as his Southern California publicity director in 1946 when he first ran for election to the Senate, following his appointment by Gov. Warren to fill the vacancy created by the death of Senator Hiram Johnson.

During my months of close association with Knowland, I came to admire him as one of the most honest men I have ever known. He was always fair and courteous, but a man of strong convictions. We won that campaign in 1946 mainly on one gimmick — "We must not share the atomic bomb secret with RUSSIA."

That was the main theme of that campaign, since our leftish opponents at that time were urging the United States to share the bomb secret with Russia. Soviet Russia later got the secret through American spies — the Rosenbergs, Fuchs and others.

But Knowland dies in the RUSSIAN River, not far from where RUSSIA once Established its old Fort Ross. At least this is strangely ironic, and I am not convinced that Bill Knowland committed suicide.

There are, as your editorial said, too many unanswered questions. In light of what has been taking place in Oakland and vicinity, more investigation is needed. Far too often murders are written off as suicides, and in fairness to Knowland's memory, a believable clarification should be made public. — William L. Roper, Chino.

Gossip for today

A toilet paper shortage I can cope with—even a shortage of baling wire, as announced by the California Farm Bureau. I have also considered following the advice of a government official who suggested that people brush their teeth in the dark to conserve on electricity.

Naturally I have cut my gasoline consumption in half and am only buying steaks on the odd numbered days of the month. But in spite of all such sacrifices, I have remained unwavering in my conviction that, with all its shortages, the United States is still a land flowing with milk and honey.

Didn't the busy little bees in California increase their honey production by 27 per cent last year? And for the last 5,000 years (as proven by recently discovered Mesopotamian mosaics showing cows being milked) hasn't milk had something for every body? —I have reamined unwavering in that conviction, I repeat, until today when I picked up my newspaper and read that the price of milk is about to go up by at least 6 cents a gallon. Now I'm beginning to wonder. Even though milk may have something for every body, few bodies are going to be able to afford it.

"But then", I consoled myself, "one can always live on bread and water." And then it was I read another news report. It stated that bread, the staff of life, may soon be costing us $1.90 a loaf. Suddenly something noble shattered inside me. All my stout hearted, chin-up determination went PLOP like a pin pricked toy balloon.

"Enough is enough! I wailed in frenzied desperation. "Now is the time for all good men to switch to the Democratic Party."

Soviets scare U.S. into missile growth

WASHINGTON — Research is on the way to producing an effective family of relatively cheap missiles which could be so thoroughly scattered and hidden in unlikely places that they would serve as protection against a Soviet first-strike.

The more effective the current round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT II) are in limiting missiles with multiple warheads, or other major esoteric missiles, the more likely it is that the arms race between the Soviet Union and the United States will be spearheaded by work on the plebian cruise missile, something almost ignored here until Russian developments of this unglamorous weapon were learned of causing the unpredictable Defense Secretary James Schlesinger to shock the Pentagon into action.

The major problem still is that deep and bitter Air Force and Navy infighting could delay research and development intolerably. The current behind-the-scenes tactic is to dismiss the cruise missile as "political," and to put up one technical roadblock after another. Strong men in both services fear successful development of this missile with its possible variations, could reduce support for pet projects such as the B-1 super bomber and some major advanced types of naval ship-missile systems.

The cruise missile is extremely versatile and being subsonic, can fly long distances. It is difficult to attack because most versions can be programmed to fly in at such low altitudes as to be virtually undetectable by radar. It is so cheap it can be replaced here and there in large numbers. One version will fit a standard sized torpedo tube making every strategic and tactical submarine a potential launching platform. But with some modifications in ship and weapon, it can also be carried on almost any merchant ship of any size. It can be handled on the B-52 bomber and on the future B-1. But with modifications it can be carried on a variety of military aircraft — including cargo planes. With such dispersal, no Soviet intercontinental missile force could knock out enough cruise missiles to make the Soviet Union feel safe.

But equally important, the cruise missile does not require an expensive and sophisticated launching platform — that is, no super sub or super plane.

The aforementioned has centered on strategic types of the cruise missile. But inexpensive tactical versions can be equally effective, and as revolutionary, as the Russians have demonstrated in rigorous testing. Cruise missiles, already installed in the Soviet Navy, are potentially as menacing to surface warships as the Russian provided Egyptian anti-tank weapons were to tanks in the recent Arab-Israeli fighting.

Schlessinger is known to strongly believe that only through a rich research budget, which emphasizes studies into unconventional weapons, strategy and tactics, can the United States afford the defense he believes this country must have to counter the growing military strength of the Soviet Union.

La Verne joins fight on abandoned housing

LA VERNE — La Verne has agreed to join the Valley Association of Cities to combat abandoned housing.

The City Council this week signed an agreement and appointed Acting City Atty. Terry Brutocao to represent La Verne at the organization's next meeting March 28 at the Upland Public Library.

But the council was displeased with a proposal to split its representation with Walnut.

While a resolution setting up the organization provides one vote for each 20,000 population—this makes the combined population of La Verne and Walnut 18,974—the councilmen pointed out that San Dimas has a full vote with a population of 15,692.

The La Verne councilmen asked Brutocao to lodge a protest.

The purpose of the organization is to reduce the number of abandoned homes by counseling homeowner, a maintenance program for vacant houses, and by surveillance of presently abandoned homes.

Right now, there are four abandoned houses in La Verne, according to City Clerk Ruth Hogan.

The local council was the last to formally approve VAC membership among the nine cities that participated in an original study on abandoned housing.

Workshop for teachers scheduled at college

LA VERNE -- A weekend workshop for teachers and administrators of programs for handicapped children will be presented Friday and Saturday at La Verne College.

The workshop "A Practical Approach to Early Childhood Education for the Developmentally Disabled Child," will be held Friday from 4 to 10 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Room 156 of the Science and Education Building.

Mrs. Mary Boyd, executive director of Ontario-Pomona Association of Retarded Citizens (OPARC), will be the principal speaker. Joining her will be Joanne Travers of the Inland County Development Disabilities Service Center, San Bernardino; and Judy Cook, infant stimulation coordinator at OPARC.

The course, especially designed to create an awareness of practical methods of working with the developmentally disabled child, will include exploration of behavior shaping, motor sensory training, problem solving, goal setting, detection of sensory impairment, and the development of personal identity and self-confidence.

Enrollment is limited to 35 students for the $40 course which offers one semester unit of credit.

For further inforation, interested persons may contact the college's graduate office at 593-3511.

City Beautiful teams studying flower displays

LA VERNE — Survey teams from the La Verne City Beautiful Committee will be turning in their recommendations this week to Flower Festival Chairman Mrs. Betty Riay for the homes with the most beautiful display of spring flowers.

Judges will narrow down the selection to first, second-and third-place winners and three honorable mentions. Awards of gift certificates will be presented.

Considerations will be given to the over-all landscaping plan and plantings for color over a longer period of time in addition to the spring display.

La Verne names Pomona man, 30, as city attorney

LA VERNE — Terrence J. Brutocao, 30, of Claremont, a partner in the Pomona law firm of Allard, Shelton and O'Connor, has been named acting city attorney here.

He succeeds Eugene P. Axelrod, who resigned two weeks ago, after serving nine years, to run for the state Assembly from the 65th district.

Brutocao was appointed to the position by Mayor Mike Morales Monday night. A native of Toronto, Canada, Brutocao was graduated from Pomona Catholic High School in 1961, and from the UCLA School of Law in 1968.

He and his wife, Ann, are the parents of three boys. Brutocao has served as legal counsel for the Pomona Jaycees for the past year.

Fun with water babies

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The present survivors of urban America of the 20th Century are survivors only because they have learned, often by bitter experience, not to mix certain catalytic agents — gin and bourbon, blondes and brunettes, nitro and glycerine.

Now that summer is i-cummen in, the survivors must once again be alerted to another disastrous blend — kids and water. This mix must be watched with utmost intensity if there are to be additional 20th Century survivors.

A child's relationship with water is a fascinating study, from damp diapers to the thermo-whirlpool in the football locker room. Some children take to water like a duck's back; others are born disliking water and end up loathing it.

A staple of comics and columns through the years has been the small boy dragged struggling to his Saturday night bath. Once immersed by his muscular mother, the child enjoys his frolic (it says here) and ends up flooding the bathroom and leaving the tub cluttered with boats, plastic ducks and a miniature submarine which punctures Dad's rearend when he takes his bath later, apparently in the tepid, soapy water left by his son.

Small children love rain, enjoy walking around bareheaded in a downpour and wading barefoot in flooded gutters, leaving their shoes and socks by the curb in front of Willie's house, seven blocks away. If they're so crazy about water they run out into a thunder shower in a T-shirt and jeans, how come you have to use your belt to get them into the tub on Saturday night?

If you are successful in keeping your brat from falling into swimming pool, dishwasher and toilet for a number of years, you will find his attitude toward water changing. A teen-ager, male or female, getting ready for an evening at a rock concert or an underground film festival, can spend hours in the shower, using up all the hot water in a 40-gallon tank. You can't GET him out. And when you finally do, you find the bathroom a quagmire of steaming mirrors, soggy towels, damp pantyhose and girdles. (Do girls wear girdles anymore?)

Water in nature is nothing but a challenge to young people, from the two-year-old who toddles eagerly toward towering breakers at the beach, to 12-year-olds who do bellywhoppers from the high board into crowded swimming pools, to teenagers who dive from rocks into icy mountain streams studded with boulders. Water in its natural estate, the more turbulent and frigid the better, attracts the young as a Royal Coachman lures a speckled trout. The trout often comes out better.

Finding Mother Nature's aqueous offerings sometimes less than challenging, our young survivors-to-be have invented numerous ways to add danger to the fun, turning to surfing, scuba diving, water-skiing and other lethal pastimes.

On the whole, we could do much worse than follow the ancient wisdom of the familiar rhyme:

"Mother, may I go in for a swim?
Yes, my darling daughter.
Hang your clothes on a hickory limb
But don't go near the water."

SIGNS OF LOVE — Joyce McCain watches as her husband, Don, and adopted daughter, Joon Hee Choi, 6, from Korea, exchange deaf sign language for "I love you." The McCains who have four sons with normal hearing, are believed to be the first deaf couple in Ypsilanti, Mich., to adopt a deaf child.

Dummy play turns tide

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There is nothing spectacular about today's hand. The contract is a humdrum four hearts which South brings home without any squeezes, coups or end plays. He does take a finesse but everybody takes finesses.

Nevertheless the hand is worthy of lots of study because the winning play requires faultless technique.

South must start by ducking the first spade. West can do nothing better than to continue the suit. South wins and it is now up to him to take an immediate club finesse. When that works he must cash his ace and king of trumps. Then he leads a club to the ace and ruffs a third club.

Now he is ready and able to ruff his last spade. A fourth club is led and ruffed and South has eight tricks in. The ace of spades; ace-king of trumps; ace-queen of clubs; one ruff in dummy and two in his own hand. He leads to dummy's ace of diamonds and plays the last club.

If East ruffs, South's last trump will take his 10th trick. If East doesn't ruff, that club is the 10th trick.

All very simple, but the sort of dummy play that wins in all forms of competition.

Riles says S.F. school system 'embarrassing'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles told a news conference that San Francisco's school system is so bad it's "embarrassing."

He said San Francisco's system needs a "total reform and overhaul."

Riles was in Washington to testify before a house subcommittee on the need for federal financing of bilingual education in California.

Two councilmen oppose pay hike

UPLAND — By state law, City Council members can't refuse a pay raise, but at least two council members would feel better if they could.

When a measure to change a state code reference in the city's ordinance on council pay came up for action at this week's meeting, Council members Harold Bailin and Mrs. Ina Petokas turned thumbs down on the whole idea of a pay raise.

Even though City Atty. Donald Maroney explained that the $50 monthly salary hike, the council's first in eight years, was being paid automatically since April 1973, Bailin questioned the propriety of revising the ordinance to insure it reflected the proper state code reference number.

"I don't think we ought to bow under the table to do it," he commented about the action. He and Mrs. Petokas cast "no" votes, but the ordinance change passed by a single vote margin.

Pay increases are tied to population jumps. The amount increased to $200 per month when the city passed the 35,000 population mark last year. Council members will receive another $50 boost when the population passes the 50,000 mark.

In other action, the council voted not to require new car dealerships to obtain conditional use permits when setting up agencies where incidental repairs and services will be performed.

Mrs. Petokas and Mayor Abner Haldeman thought the additional control that CUPs would give the city was a good idea, but the rest of the council agreed with Bob Sherwood of the Chamber of Commerce that the measure unnecessarily restricted car dealers, whose agencies are a major source of sales tax revenue. Those voting against the measure felt adequate development controls already exist through reviews by the Architectural Committee.

The council did pass a companion proposal to increase zoning fees for processing variances, zone change or conditional use permit requests. The new fees are $50 for variances and $150 for either zone changes or CUPs.

Other actions

In other business action, the council:

—Approved a request for a CUP by the Seventh Street Mennonite Church to establish a new church on 13th Street.

—Approved an improvement district to complete street improvements on a 15-foot stretch of Mountain Avenue between Foothill Boulevard and 13th Street.

—Approved contract awards of $153,083.61 for two new fire engines to Crown Coach Corp. of Los Angeles, $3,113.70 to the state for a new four-door sedan, and $8,190 to U.S. Pipe and Foundry of Riverside for 2,000 feet of water pipe.

—Supported the proposed San Bernardino County Solid Waste Management Plan, but only on condition that services are financed on a user-fee basis.

—Appointed council members to new city committees and local governmental agencies as follows: audit—Harold Bailin, chairman, John McCarthy and Ina Petokas; finance and budget—George Gibson, chairman, plus all council members; street and light—Mrs. Petokas, chairman, and Bailin; police and fire—Gibson, chairman, and Mrs. Petokas; library board—McCarthy; legislative—Mrs. Petokas, chairman, and Mayor Haldeman; water and sewer—Gibson, chairman, and Mrs. Petokas; Town Affiliation Association—McCarthy; West Valley Planning Agency—Bailin; Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG)—Bailin; San Bernardino Association of Governments (SANBAG)—McCarthy and Mayor Haldeman (alt.); San Gabriel Valley Municipal Data System—Gibson and Mayor Haldeman (alt.); and Valley Association of Cities—McCarthy and Mrs. Petokas (alt.).

Bush says Nixon will campaign for GOP candidates when asked

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Republican National Chairman George Bush said President Nixon will campaign for GOP congressional candidates this fall, "Where he is asked to."

Bush, appearing recently at Tulane University with former Attorney General Elliott Richardson, said he beleived the GOP "on the issues, is closer to the heartbeat of America."

Bush cited administration achievements such as elimination of the draft, foreign policy and its role as the only 'catalyst for peace in the Middle East."

Richardson said that "people at the center," including Nixon himself, "were guilty, at least, of the arrogance of power. But I am not yet convinced he should resign."

"We would be better served in the long run if the duly established constitutional processes set out in the Constitution are observed," he said.

Richardson said there was no more urgent task than restoration of confidence in government.

"I keep wishing the president would see it that way."

Both Richardson and Bush were optimistic of the GOP's chances for victories in the fall elections.

U.S. balance of payments show big surplus for 1973

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. balance of payments wound up with a $1.2 billion surplus in 1973, a sharp turnaround from a $9.8 billion deficit a year earlier, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

The trade balance surplus with foreign nations dropped sharply in the final quarter, however, with a $2 million surplus compared with $2.5 billion in the third quarter.

This is the balance on current accounts and long term capital, properly called the basic balance, reflecting underlying trends in transactions between the United States and foreign countries. It does not include the more volatile short term transactions.

The balance on goods and services improved by $1.8 billion in the fourth quarter to a surplus of $4 billion, primarily reflecting increases in the merchandise trade surplus net investment income and military sales.

For the full year of 1973, the balance on goods and services improved $11.5 billion to a $6.9 billion surplus, with the trade balance shifting favorably by $7.6 billion and the services balance by $3.9 billion.

No estimate on amount of Arab oil

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Energy Office FEO) said that the United States was importing about 1.6 million barrels of oil a day from the Arab nations before they imposed their embargo.

The spokesman said it was impossible to estimate how much Middle East oil would be imported daily now that the embargo had been lifted. He noted that the United States would be competing with other nations for the available supply and that oil prices have been increasing.

The spokesman said the United States was importing 6.2 million barrels a day from foreign sources prior to the embargo, with about one-fourth of it coming from the Arab countries.

The United States was using about 17.3 million barrels of oil a day before the embargo, dropping to 17.1 million barrels during the embargo, the spokesman said. He projected estimated future U.S. needs at about 20 million barrels a day.

Review of case asked by Belli

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Melvin Belli has asked the California Supreme Court to reconsider hos 30-day suspension from practicing law handed down March 1.

The high court ruled 6-1 to suspend Belli, a controversial San Francisco trial lawyer, for endorsing a scotch whiskey in an advertisement. The suspension is scheduled to start April 1.

Belli said the endorsement was not unethical and that "these Victorian standards are outmoded."

Olympics scheduled

Palomares District Camp Fire Girls, Mt. San Antonio Council, has planned a Sports and Olympics Day to commemorate the 64th birthday of the organization.

Slated Saturday from 10 .m. to 2 p.m. at Blaisdell Park, Claremont, the event will offer a variety of sport competitions. It is open to girls, parents and friends who wish to become acquainted with the local Camp Fire family.

Chairmen for the day are Mrs. Mary Shaffer, Mrs. Joyce Smith and Mrs. Catherine Johnson.

The girls will compete in all kinds of events conducted by Mmes. Pat Caro, Kitty Ellington, Lilia Enriquez, Kathleen Glidden, Doreen Mooney, Katherine Payne, Raylene Pound, Sylvia Stavros and Lois Williams, of Discovery and Horizon Clubs. Participants are reminded to bring a sack lunch of food for a cook out.

The Camp Fire program offers girls from six through high school age the opportunity to develop their talents and learn to make their own choices and plans.

Mt. San Antio Council is a member agency of United Way and the West End United Way.

Delta Kappa Delta plans Monday meet

"Practical Implementations," subject for the meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Epsilon Sigma Chapter, Monday, is a part of the organization's theme for this year's programs, "Continuing Education for Changing Times."

The program is a result of the Alpha Pi symposium held in February at San Bernardino Valley College on programs in continuing education for women.

Mrs. E. J. Wangler and Mrs. James Walker, program chairmen, investigated and found local colleges and adult education programs most responsive to the needs of women in this area.

The meeting, which will be held in the home of Mrs. Betty Humphreys, 3857 Sumner Ave., Claremont, will have a program with three speakers. They are Mrs. Virginia Johnson, assistant professor in teacher preparation at Cal Poly and a reading specialist and consultant for several school districts; Mrs. Beverly Benjamin, coordinator of early childhood development program at Chaffey College; and Dr. Lucille Robinson, general consultant in instruction for the Ontario-Montclair School District.

Hostesses will be Miss Ruth Foltz and Mrs. E. J. Wangler.

Installation of officers for the 1974-76 term will be conducted at the meeting April 27 at 3 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Glenn Townsend, 755 E. Jefferson Ave.

The new president and the retiring president will attend the Chi state convention May 3-5 in Sacramento, and on May 18 the group will observe Founder's Day at Griswold's Indian Hill with all Area 12 members in attendance.

Meeting, dinner set by chapter

"Lavendar and Old Lace" will be the theme for the stated meeting planned by Pomona Chapter 110, Order of the Eastern Star, Saturday.

A potluck dinner at 6 p.m. will precede the 8 p.m. meeting in the Masonic Temple. Each member will bring a covered dish, salad or dessert and their own table service.

Members may wear old fashioned costumes or clothing.

Mrs. Robert E. Powers, deputy grand matron of the 59th district of the grand chapter, California, will be given special escort.

The First California Ritual Team will exemplify their work during the evening.

Mrs. Peter J. Newman is in charge of decorations and will be assisted by Mrs. Eugene W. Endicott.

"Crumpets and Tea" will be served in the dining room by Mmes. Maiuu A'ce, Eugene W. Endicott, Zella M. Steidley and Paul H. Putnam, star points.

Animal fund to benefit from charity

"Save the Animals Fund" will be among the participants in Ontario Plaza's Charity Day on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Included in the group's booth will be a selection of baked goods, macrame crafts, oil paintings, hand-painted china, stationery and other items.

Save the Animals Fund is a nonprofit humane organization whose primary purpose is to relieve the suffering of all animals. Proceeds are used for rescue work, spaying and neutering animals, emergency veterinarian care and finding homes for abandoned pets.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Second honeymoon

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: I'm going through the menopause and while all my friends complain about how depressed they are because of the physical problems, I'm experiencing none of this. In fact, I am now in my mid-50s and I've never had a more rewarding sex life. I mentioned this to a friend and she thinks this is disgusting and abnormal, but she's one of those with so many physical complaints. Is it abnormal? If it is, I'm glad to be abnormal. So, maybe, I'm just a happy sex fiend . . . or a dirty old lady, but who's it hurting?—P.L.

Dear P.L.: There are almost as many myths about menopause as there are about women in general. There is no reason for you not to enjoy sex after menopause and there are many reasons why you might enjoy it more.

Dr. Ellen Birchell, psychiatrist, points out in her book, "Sex and the Adult Woman" (Simon and Schuster) that many women think of the years following menopause as a kind of second honeymoon. If a woman has had any sexual problems with her husband this may be the time she chooses to discuss them and to experiment without fear.

Women who have had a good sex life before menopause should expect to continue having fulfilling, rewarding sexual experiences for some time. There is absolutely no basis for the old-fashioned notion that sex suddenly stops at middle-age. Studies show that sex and the sex drive is still a highly individual thing but that men and women who had a strong sex drive in their youth may continue to enjoy sex until they are in their 80s.

I'm afraid your friends may be jealous of your happiness. This is unfortunate for them, but it should, in no way, make you feel guilty or abnormal.

The nervousness, irritability and depression that many women complain of when they are going through this period may result more from their fears about growing old and their mental attitudes than from any actual physical effect. Any woman who is suffering from actual discomfort that does frequently accompany menopause should see her physician. Medication will probably help her.

Age, like everything else in life, is relative. Many years ago, life was over for some men and women by the time they reached the middle years, but today this is hardly the case. We have increased our life expectancy so that most individuals can expect a good many years of full and active living once they have passed their middle years.

Some women indulge in a wild sexual fling after menopause, just as some men do at this same time of life. Women, no longer fearing pregnancy and usually freed of responsibility toward family and children, may become as promiscuous and frenzied as teen-agers in their search for erotic pleasure. A woman may compete with her daughter over males and she may even try to compete with her granddaughter. The woman who behaves this way usually fears menopause and sees it as a grave crisis that threatens her existence as a woman. Because of these fears she may begin to drink too much and relax all sexual restraints.

From your letter, however, it appears you are not the type of woman I've described. You seem to be fortunate in having good mental, physical and emotional health. Enjoy it. You are perfectly normal, so have no fears! If your friends are wise, they may try to discover your secret, rather than criticize you.

Senator feels Nixon should stand ground

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N. C., thinks President Nixon should stand his ground and remain in office if he is innocent.

Helms said that he believes that conservatives will make a "serious error if they advocate that a president, if he is truly innocent, resign to appease a hostile press or even a majority of his countrymen."

Helms' comments came after Sen. James Buckley, R-N. Y., called upon Nixon to resign and end the national "trauma" over Watergate and impeachment issues.

The North Carolina lawmaker called on the public to believe the President is innocent until proven guilty.

"If the President is guilty, then I agree with Senator Buckley that Mr. Nixon should resign," Helms said.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

To efficiently meet growing oil demands, maximum tanker size has reached almost 500,000 deadweight tons and there were 25 supertankers of more than 275,000 tons as of May 1, 1973, The World Almanac notes. There are only three U.S. ports able to handle tankers of more than 100,000 tons and none can accommodate over 200,000 tons. Deadweight tonnage is the weight (long tons) of cargo, fuel, etc., which a vessel is designed to carry safely.

Clean up cat's paws after slosh in mud

By Dr. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Big Mike, our cat, doesn't mind mud as much as most cats. Leastwise, he gets plenty of it on his feet. Sometimes it will dry and cake on his paws before he cleans them. When they are wet, I notice he just washes them clean ,but when they are dry and caked he chews off the dirt and spits most of it out. What I am really wondering is, what is all of that dirt going to do to his insides? — N. F.

Dear N. F.: Because uncontaminated dirt is so hard to find now in most areas of the country, the severity of the digestive disturbances would vary from zero to considerable depending upon the degree of contamination and the amount consumed. If mud puddles are particularly polluted in your area, you could help considerably by toweling down Big Mike's paws after he has been sloshing around in the muck.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I happen to know enough about nutrition to know that peanut butter IS an excellent food for birds. I fed it all winter with excellent results yet a neighbor keeps squawking about my killing birds with it.

She doesn't make any sense, of course, but is there every a time when peanut butter is actually dangerous? — K. G.

Dear K. G.: Unfortunately, peanut butter can be a hazard to some small birds. On occasion, it may cause acute indigestion or it may become so gummed-up in a beak that eating becomes difficult or impossible. Peanut butter is safer for these small birds and is more easily handled by others if it is mixed on a 50-50 basis with corn meal before being served.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our dog had off and on bouts with colitis for a long time before whipworms were found and he was treated for them. He hasn't had any trouble since but now both of our cats have a sudden diarrhea problem and we wonder if maybe they got the whipworms from the dog? — S. A.

Dear S. A.: While whipworms may occur in the cat, whether or not they cause trouble in the feline is uncertain. I hope your cats' problem has passed by now. If not, they are long overdue for the doctor's help. The chances of the two cats simultaneously developing an intestinal problem as a result of the trichuris (whipworm) infestation is slight.

Lakers jump back on top

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — "I'm so damn happy I can't think straight," said coach Bill Sharman after his Lakers battled from 11 points behind to beat Milwaukee 120-114 Wednesday night and keep them in the thick of the playoff fight.

"We showed incredible emotion. I just hope we can sustain it," he said of the win that moved Los Angeles a game ahead in the Pacific Division.

Coupled with Golden State's loss at Seattle, the Lakers are even with the Warriors in the loss column and have three games remaining. Golden State has five.

Jim Price and Gail Goodrich teamed with Connie Hawkins to turn a 68-57 Bucks lead into a 99-88 Laker edge in the final 10 minutes of the third period. Goodrich popped in 27 points for the night and Price added 24.

"Everyone did his job," Sharman said, but then proceeded to single out Bill Bridges.

"Bridges did a fantastic job on Abdul-Jabbar. He wouldn't let Jabbar turn around," Sharman said.

The giant Bucks center was held to just six points in the final half after scoring 21 in the opening two periods.

Sharman said the Lakers changed score 61-55, to make it difficult for Milwaukee to get the ball to the 7-4 Abdul-Jabbar.

Los Angeles trailed throughout the contest until Price scored on a lay-in with 5:45 left in the third period.

Second-year man Price showed ballet-like body control in driving through the porous Milwaukee middle for 14 points in the pivotal third period when the Lakers scored 44 points.

Price's layups came despite the presence of Jabbar, recognized as the NBA's most valuable player earlier in the day. The giant center fouled out with 3:34 to go in the game, only the second time for him this year.

"The coach told us after the two losses over the weekend that anything can still happen," Price said after the game. "Our win against New York on Sunday night while Golden State was losing sure helped our attitude."

Los Angeles had a 13-point lead at 105-92 early in the fourth quarter and held back a last-ditch Bucks drive for the final 120-114 score.

"If we could've just won that game (against Golden State) Friday night," Sharman said. "We're got to win them all now."

The situation for the Lakers boils down to this: Los Angeles' three remaining games are all at home, and the Lakers probably have to win them all, while Golden State's five contests include two on the road.

If the season ends in a tie, Golden State will go to the playoffs because of its 4-2 season edge on the Lakers.

Goodrich went over the 2,000-point mark for the season Wednesday night and Happy Hairston's 15 rebounds put him over the 1,000-rebound mark for the year. Hawkins finished with 21 points and Elmore Smith added 20 to the balanced Laker attack.

Meanwhile, the Warriors were losing their second game in as many nights, 110-107, to the Seattle Sonics with the help of Sonic rookie Slick Watts.

The Warriors trailed by only one point in the closing seconds and ace Rick Barry had the ball when Watts pilfered the ball, raced the entire length of the court, and sank a clinching basket with six seconds to play. Barry took game scorings honors with 36 points and Dick Snyder, whose basket had put Seattle into the one-point lead, led the homestanding Sonics with 30.

In other NBA action Wednesday:

Bill Bradley scored 31 points including four in overtime, to lead the New York Knicks to a 104-102 victory over the Phoenix Suns after Keith Erickson of the Suns had hit a jump shot at the buzzer to send the game into a 98-98 tie; Elvin Hayes tallied 32 points and latched onto 16 rebounds to lead the Capital Bullets in a 101-91 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers; Geoff Peterie scored 43 points, including 30 in the second half, to pace Portland in a 113-106 victory oveer Philadelphia that ended Portland's 21-game road losing streak; Pete Maravich hit 38 points for the Atlanta Hawks in a 99-89 win over the Boston Celtics as he went over the 2,000 mark for the second straight year; the Detroit Pistons rallied from 10 points behind to beat the Houston Rockets, 103-99, despite 37 points by Rudy Tomjanovich; and the Chicago Bulls, led by Norm Van Lier's 25 points, downed KC-Omaha at Kansas City when Nate Williams' buzzer shot rimmed the basket, ending KC's four-game winning streak.

HIGH ABOVE SMITH

Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who was voted the MVP by the National Basketball Association players, leaps high above the Lakers' Elmore Smith but Lakers won.

Jabbar is MVP in players' vote

NEW YORK (UPI) — The guys who have to face him voted Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Milwaukee Bucks the "Most Valuable Player" in the National Basketball Association, the league announced Wednesday.

It was the third time in his five-year professional career that the 7-foot-2 center of the Bucks has been voted the Maurice Podoloff award as the loop's top player.

This time he got the nod over Bob McAdoo of Buffalo, the league's leading scorer, with Bob Lanier of the Detroit Pistons third and center Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics, the 1973 winner, a distant fourth.

Abdul-Jabbar received 74 first-place votes from 181 league players and a total of 528 points. He also received 41 second-place votes and 35 third-place votes.

With only a handful of games left in the season, Abdul-Jabbar stands third in the league in scoring, second in shooting average, and second in blocked shots. He has scored 2,031 points in 76 games for an average of 26.7 points per game; his point total is topped only by McAdoo and his average only by McAdoo and Pete Maravich of Atlanta.

He has averaged .535 in shooting from the floor, topped only by McAdoo's .545, and has blocked 3.54 shots per game, which is toped over by Elmore Smith of Los Angeles with 4.92.

However, statistics do not tell the complete story of how Abdul-Jabbar establishes domination of the court in so many games —shooting, rebounding, blocking shots.

Adbul-Jabbar won the MVP award, which is named for the late league President, in 1971 and 1972. He has been named to the league All-Star team every year in the league and is the all-time league leader in field goal shooting percentage.

Santa Anita featuring San Bernardino purse

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Spiritina and Arlene Francis take on seven challengers Friday in the $14,000 San Bernardino County Fair purse at Santa Anita.

The top pair in the one-mile track event will be joined by recent Golden Gate winner Carremon's Kiss and Ground Song, who has finished second in her last two starts.

Spiritina won her last race by holding off closing charges from Ground Song and Sphere at Six at ½ furlongs on the turf. Arlene Francis, a full sister to horse-of-the-Year Damascus, almost beat undefeated Sweet Greek in her last outing.

She will carry jockey Jacinto Vasquez and 114 pounds, while Spiritina will be ridden by Tony Diaz with 11.

Ground Song's close second to Spiritina was only her second appearance after more than a six month layoff. She will carry Alvaro Pineda and 114. Cameron's Kiss, who won at a mile last time, will be ridden by Raul Ramirez and carry 121.

Also set to go are Lady of Bagdad, Cutty, Aviemore, Bold Starlet, and Mr's. Ironec.

Dodgers swift on bases against Reds' Hal King

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Don Sutton pitched five innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers stretched their spring winning streak to four games Wednesday by defeating Cincinnati, 5-3.

Sutton gave up two runs, one earned, in registering the victory. He was followed to the mound by Rick Rhoden, who hurled three shutout innings, which ran his scoreless string to nine. Charlie Hough worked the last inning, giving up a run.

Los Angeles stole five bases off Reds' catcher Hal King, who filled in for Johnny Bench. Dave Lopes picked up two of the steals and now has seven for the spring.

Joe Ferguson had two singles and batted in a run as the Dodgers collected eight hits. Pete Rose, the National League's most valuable player last year, stroked three hits for Cincinnati.

The losing pitcher was Fred Norman, who gave up three runs in five innings, one unearned.

Los Angeles plays Baltimore tonight at Miami, and the Reds take on Philadelphia the same day at Clearwater, Fla., this afternoon.

Davila, Duarte risking records

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Local bantamwieghts Alberto Davila and Frankie Duarte risk unbeaten records tonight when they share main event boxing honors in 10-round bouts at the Olympic Auditorium.

Davila, 9-0, meets Mario Rogelio of Mexico, 14-2. Duarte faces Frank Granados of Mexico, 16-5.

In his first 10-round bout last January, Davila decisioned Doreto Cubillas of the Philippines. Duarte was named Southern California's preliminary fighter of 1973 and will be making his first 10-round start.

Walton 'ready' for N.C. State

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI) — UCLA's John Wooden put North Carolina State on notice Wednesday that Bill Walton is ready for the Bruins' NCAA playoff game with the Wolfpack Saturday.

"Bill became himself about two weeks ago," recovering fully for the first time from a back injury suffered earlier in the season, Wooden said in a telephone news conference.

"For a long time he did not have the pep he had prior to the fall," he said. "For a while he became the quiet type. His leadership was not that apparent in practice. In practice he's generally a great influence on the rest of the team.

"Now he has it back."

Walton, an awesome 6-foot-11 All-America center, will lead second-ranked UCLA against the top-ranked Wolfpack at 12:10 PDT Saturday in an NCAA semifinal game.

The other semifinal match, at 10:10 a.m. PDT, pits 5th-ranked Marquette against 10th-ranked Kansas.

Coaches of all four teams discussed the semis over a special telephone hookup with sports writers who already have gathered for the playoffs.

Wooden said the Bruins' performance has improved since their back-to-back losses in February to Oregon State and Oregon, upsets that knocked UCLA out of first place in the ratings.

"We've used our high post offense a little more and it has worked real well," said Wooden.

North Carolina State will be out to avenge its only loss of the season, an 84-66 defeat by UCLA last Dec. 15, but Wooden doubted the Wolfpack would have any psychological advantage over the Bruins.

"I believe you can discount that game," he said, adding, "but I would rather be in the position of having beaten a team by a substantial margin before than to have lost to them by a substantial margin."

Wolfpack coach Norm Sloan was delighted that All-America David Thompson performed well and had no ill effects from Tuesday's practice, his first since a fall last Saturday lacerating his head and requiring 15 stitches.

When the 6-foot-4 forward first came on the practice court, Sloan said, "All of us were trying hard to act like we were not watching him, but we were.

"When he dunked one I felt like cheering," Sloan said. "We were all watching more than we wanted to admit."

Kansas coach Ted Owens reminded the writers that the UCLA-North Carolina State contest, although the center of intense interest, is not the only game being played Saturday.

"We're not thinking about the UCLA-North Carolina State game," he said. "All our thoughts are preparing for an outstanding Marquette team."

The Jayhawks earned a semifinal berth by squeezing past Oral Roberts 93-90 in overtime in the Midwest regional.

"A lot of people did not expect us to win our conference championship as well as the regionals," Owens said. "But we played with great spirit and we're bringing a good team to Greensboro."

Marquette edged into the semis for the first time in nine attempts, nipping Michigan, which had upset favored Notre Dame, 72-70 for the Mideast title.

"A lot of people didn't think we'd get here," said coach Al McGuire.

Bruins favored by four points

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder Wednesday listed defending champion UCLA and Marquette four-point favorites to win their semifinal games in the NCAA basketball tournament.

UCLA meets top-ranked North Carolina State, while Marquette faces Kansas in the tournament at Greensboro, N.C.

Foreman's warning:

Norton better stay down

CARACAS (UPI) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman said Wednesday it would serve Ken Norton best if he stayed down if he gets knocked down in their 15-round championship fight March 26.

"I don't mean to sound like I'm bragging," Foreman told newsmen while relaxing beside his hotel swimming pool, "but I realized a few fights ago I was a good puncher and when I hit someone they feel it.

"If Norton gets hit and stays down, that will be better for him," the 25-year-old undefeated champion said. "But if he keeps getting up, he could get hurt. I hate to think I'd have to hurt a man."

Foreman was in a relaxed mood and feeling so fit that trainer Dick Sadler called off the champion's sparring session for the third time in four days. Norton trained, but in secret for the second straight day.

The fight can be viewed on closed circuit television at the Fox Theater in Pomona. Reserved seats on the main floor are $10 and unreserved seats in the balcony are $8. Doors open at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Norton's co-manager, Art Rivkin, denied insistent reports that Norton was boycotting public workouts at the Poliedro stadium in protest at alleged overtures being made to Foreman for a fight with Muhammed Ali.

"That's a falsehood", Rivkin said. "We're going back to the Poliedro tomorrow. We're training in secret right now because there are some things Ken is working on which are difficult to do in public".

"Sure we heard about the approaches made to Foreman for an Ali fight," he said. "We plan to throw some bolts in those plans."

Norton has fought Ali twice, breaking his jaw in a 12-round decision a year ago and then losing a split-decision rematch six months later.

"There has been talk about a Foreman-Ali fight for six months, ever since Ali beat Norton," said Foreman's trainer, Sadler.

Foreman told newsmen he has little respect for Norton.

"I don't respect Ken Norton because respect means fear, and I don't fear him," the champion said.

"But I admire him because he's been able to get it all together in his two fights with Ali. He has been able to advance and nows finds himself in a fight for the heavyweight championship."

Broncos recruit three JC stars

POMONA — The list of junior college gridders planning to transfer to Cal Poly now stands at 28.

Coach Andy Vinci will start spring football drills April 8 and among the newcomers will be Ken La Vigne, a 217-pound center from Rio Hondo; Lew Fanuchi, a 220-pound offensive guard from Citrus JC; Joe Jones, a 190-pound fullback from Saddleback, and Darrell Stevens, a 210-pound fullback from Mt. Hood JC in Oregon.

Leopards proud of new Supertent

LA VERNE — Since last September, one of the sports world's most unusual buildings has been constructed on the La Verne College campus.

The college, as many schools had, found itself in need of a new gymnasium and several other buildings. What it has had built is a student activities center combining several of the needs under one roof.

And what a roof!

More than 8,000 square yards of Teflon-coated Fiberglas has been stretched over an acre and a half of what was once the school's football field.

Supported by a network of cables stretched from four 68-foot water filled columns or masts, it is small wonder that the odd-looking structure has been dubbed "The Tepee," or "Supertent."

Actually, it looks like four tepees grown together. But if it fulfills it early promise, it will turn out to be one of the most popular and best-used facilities on any campus.

There are two levels (not stories).

The first level has four 52 feet by 145 feet main interests areas built around a central core. Each area is completely flexible as to is use.

One has been designated a physical activities area. The floor is Uniturf, a polyvinyl chloride material. It is equipped with a variety of weight-lifting and exercise devices including a trampoline, parallel bars, horizontal bars, gymnastic rings and side horses.

Each piece of equipment has a Nisson mat, sole custom built for a particular device. More portable Nisson mats (which have a great capability of absorbing shock) are available for the wrestling team to practice on or any of several uses in this or any of the other areas.

Athletic offices are located in the central core off the physical activities area. Behind the athletic offices are three locker areas, one women's, one men's, and one for varsity teams.

"Every student will have a locker available," said Athletic Director Roland Ortmayer. "We have women's lockers because of the possible direction sports are taking."

"Women are permitted to come out for all sports at La Verne College," he added.

However, Ortmayer, who is also head football coach, admitted that as yet he's had no women applicants for his football team.

Both men's and women's dressing areas have training rooms. The athletic staff, as well as every faculty member and staff member have lockers available.

Another of the 145 by 52 foot areas is a socializing area equipped with pool tables and table tennis. Plans call for a snack bar to be built soon.

In the central core of this area is a projection room and classrooms.

A third area has been earmarked as a fine arts section. The area provides space for painting, drawing, sculpting and pottery activities. It is complete with pottery wheels and kilns for baking.

In the central core adjacent to this area are offices for student government, a book store, campus newspaper offices, radio station, a photographic darkroom, small cinema, and a student post office.

Fengler stays as 'advisory'

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Harlan Fengler of Dayton, Ohio, replaced as chief steward of the Indianapolis 500 race, will stay on in an advisory capacity, Indinapolis Motor Speedway officials said Wednesday.

Fengler, under fire from various racing groups because of several controversial decisions, was replaced Tuesday by local businessman Thomas W. Binford as chief steward.

Binford said he had requested Fengler, a former race driver, to remain in an advisory capacity for the May 26 race, and he agreed.

One of Fengler's controversial decisions was the start of the 1973 race.

Switch helping Burroughs

By United Press International

Ballplayers are funny.

Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers made that switch three days ago and you've never seen such a change in a performer. Playing left field, the 23-year-old Long Beach, Calif., longballer was considered adequate defensively but since moving over to right, he has been making some great plays, getting a good jump on the ball and carrying on like he means to win the Gold Glove this year.

Billy Martin, the Rangers' manager, was the one with the inspiration to switch Burroughs from left field to right. Martin knew Burroughs could hit from his credentials of last year —85 rbis, 30 homers and a .279 average —and now he's also finding out he can do a job defensively.

Burroughs isn't neglecting his work at the plate either.

He's hitting .500 on the button this spring with 10-for-20, four of those hits being home runs. Two of them came in Wednesday's 10-9 win over the malfunctioning Minnesota Twins, who have won only one of their 14 games this spring. Burroughs went 4-for-5 against the Twins and drove in three runs, including the game winner with a ninth inning single.

Alex Johnson and Tom Grieve had two-run homers for the Rangers and Steve Braun hit one for the Twins.

Greg Luzinski had the same kind of day for Philadelphia Burroughs had for Texas, hitting a solo home run off Harry Parker in the sixth inning and a three-run shot off Parker in the seventh to knock over the New York Mets, 10-9. Luzinski's 14-for-28 gives him the same spring average as Burroughs, .500.

Jim Fuller, bidding for one of Baltimore's outfield berths, belted a two-run homer in the eighth inning that was the Orioles' margin of victory in a 4-3 decision over the Kansas City Royals. Dave McNally worked the first seven innings for Baltimore, yielding one run, a homer by Paul Schaal.

Reggie Smith's double in the seventh inning snapped a tie and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees. Smith's blow, his third hit of the contest, came at the expense of Lowell Palmer and followed a single by Jose Cruz.

Mickey Stanley's third straight hit, a three-run homer in the sixth, powered Detroit to a 6-3 triumph over Boston, and Houston got some good news from Larry Dierker in the form of five hitless innings against Montreal in a 7-3 win over the Expos. Dierker, hampered by a variety of troubles last year, walked the leadoff batter and then retired 13 in a row.

The Los Angeles Dodgers stole five bases off catcher Hal King, filling in for Johnny Bench, and beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3, for their fourth straight victory. Don Sutton allowed two runs in five innings for the win. Pete Rose had three of the Reds' nine hits.

Rain washed out the three games schedule in Arizona, canceling the San Diego-Oakland meeting at Mesa; the Cleveland-San Francisco contest at Phoenix and the Milwaukee-California exhibition at—get this—Sun City.

Angels get new holler guy in catcher Ellie Rodriguez

PALM SPRINGS — The Angels have another holler guy.

Ellie Rodriguez is manager Bobby Winkles' kind of player, joining Bob Valentine as one who likes to be involved and keep others alert. He does a little of everything — hits, runs, throws — and figures to be the Angels' starting catcher when they open the season Apr. 5 in Chicago.

One of five players acquired in the trade with Milwaukee last October, Rodriguez admits he was happy to go to the Angels where he may catch 150 games during the season.

"Every player wants to be a regular," he said as he finished a long workout in the warmth of the Angels' spring training complex. "I feel I can catch 150 games and help with the bat too. "I like to talk during the game and remind others what the situation is and the alternatives. A catcher has to be a leader. I know Valentine served as a leader until he was injured last year. It looked good.

"There were many times when Del Crandall (Milwaukee manager) would mention how much the Angels hustled and how good it looked. I was impressed."

Winkles was impressed, too, by the all-round performance of Rodriguez as the Angels reached the midway point of spring exercises. In his first eight pre-season games, Rodriguez batted .267, handled the pitching in expert fashion and even stole a base. It had been four years since an Angels catcher was credited with a steal, and it's been six years since Bob Rodgers was the last Angels catcher to swipe one during the championship season.

As the apparent catcher for a pitching staff that has been described as one of the best in the majors, Rodriguez has a gleam in his eye.

"Nolan Ryan and Bill Singer had super years last season," he said. "There are several others — Rudy May, Frank Tanana, Skip Lockwood, Andy Hassler, Rich Hand — who can start and win, too. It's exciting to see that much talent on one staff.

"A catcher has to know his pitching staff. He has to know their strengths as well as weaknesses. I feel my asset is catching."

During the past two seasons Rodriguez averaged .278 for the Brewers, leading the team with .285 in 1972. He had four 3-hit games and batted .346 in April. He has been selected by two American League All-Star squads and recently was picked on the Puerto Rican Winter League all-star team.

"I'd like to improve my rbi total most of all," he said. "I am not a home run hitter, but I would like to be a little stronger — maybe hit the ball out of the park once in a while. A .280 average would be nice, too. And then there's nothing wrong with the team winning the pennant. That would be a very good year."

Redmond gets hat trick vs. old mates

By United Press International

If there's anything a hockey player enjoys more than performing the "hat trick," scoring three goals, it's doing so against the team which traded him away and in the city he once played for, so you might say Mickey Redmond couldn't possibly have enjoyed himself more Wednesday night.

He engineered the fourth hat trick of his career, but it was only the first time he did it in Montreal and the flashy Detroit winger had the added satisfaction of putting it together against the Canadiens, the team which traded him away three years ago, in pacing the Red Wings to a 7-6 victory.

"It's super to score three goals in Montreal where I used to play," said Redmond. "Our team is playing so relaxed because we know we're not in the playoffs. That's why it was such a wide open game."

Redmond and Doug Roberts, who had a pair of goals, broke a 3-3 tie when they scored within a space of 64 seconds in the final period and after Pete Mahovlich netted his second goal of the night for the Canadiens and Jacques Lemaire followed up with another 45 seconds later to cut the Wings' margin to 6-5, Henry Boucha fired home the winner for Detroit at 12:48.

The Vancouver Canucks, struggling to stay out of the cellar in the NHL East, rallied from a 3-0 deficit to beat the New York Rangers, 7-5. Don Lever, Gerry O'Flaherty and Jocelyn Guevremont had two goals apiece for the Canucks while Rod Gilbert scored a pair for the Rangers.

Gil Perreault scored twice in the final 12 minutes giving Buffalo a 3-2 decision over Chicago. Perreault tied the score with his first goal at 8:53 of the final period, converting Rick Martin's pass and then beat Hawk goalie Tony Esposito again by rifling home Jerry Korab's rebound less than five minutes later.

Pittsburgh goalie Gary Innes made 29 saves but he let Ralph Stewart's third period shot get past him and it earned the New York Islanders a 1-1 tie. Jean Pronovost accounted for the Penguins' only score in the second period.

Sports news in brief

A DELEGATION from the St. Joseph's College basketball team met Wednesday with college president Rev. Terrence Toland to protest the firing of coach Jack McKinney. "We presented our side," said reserve center John Zipp. "We accented the positive values of coach McKinney and the negative values of Father Blee." Zipp referred to the Rev. Michael J. Blee, the athletic director who fired McKinney and who made the decision public Monday. The reason given for his dismissal was "differences of understanding" between McKinney and the college administration. The alumni association has backed McKinney and asked for the removal of Blee.

THE HAWAIIANS, Honolulu's entry in the New World Football League, announced Wednesday that they have signed San Francisco 49er wide receiver John Isenbarger to a contract beginning in 1975.

THE JACKSONVILLE, FLA. city council virtually assured the Florida Sharks of the WFL of being able to play in the 70,000 seat Gator Bowl this coming season. The council approved a rental rate reduction scale which was the final step in acquiring the team for the city. The team also will receive 30 per cent of the parking revenues under the plan worked out by the council.

DICK VITALE, who revived the University of Detroit's basketball fortunes, signed a new multi-year contract Wednesday as the Titans' head coach. Vitale directed the Titans to a 17-9 record this season.

ASSISTANT BASKETBALL COACH Dave Patton, a former high school and junior college coach in Georgia, has been named head coach at East Carolina University. Patton replaces Tom Quinn who was dismissed this month after eight years as Pirate head coach after finishing with a 13-12 Southern Conference record.

VETERAN CUBAN welterweight Angel Robinson Garcia scored his 109th victory Wednesday night by stopping Camilio De La Rosa of Tucson after four rounds of a scheduled 10 rounder in Las Vegas. Both weighted in at 143.

U.S. wrestlers meet Soviets in Long Beach

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Russian wrestling star Soslan Andiev heads a 15-man Russian wrestling team which meets the U.S. All-Star selection here Friday.

The Russians, fielding five of their '72 gold medalists, defeated the U.S. 16-4 in New York's Madison Square Garden Tuesday.

None of the Russians ranked lower than third in the 1973 world trials. The team also includes Ivan Yarygin, the first wrestler to go through an Olympic competition with no foul points, and gold medal winner Levan Tediashville.

Richard Lawinger, the NCAA champion at 149 pounds, and Sergio Gonzalez, who achieved a draw for one of the four U.S. points in New York, head the U.S. team.

The competition takes place at the Long Beach Arena. The Russians then move to San Diego for a match Sunday against the California All-Stars, before traveling for further bouts in Chattanooga, Tenn. and Washington, D.C.

Locals vie in decathlon

AZUSA — Two Azusa Pacific competitors and one Claremont-Mudd athlete began their bids for the fourth annual California Invitational Decathlon championship at Azusa Pacific College Wednesday.

Wayne Pumphry of APC was listed sixth after the first of the two days of competition, putting together 2727 points. Teammate Dennis Koupal was eighth in the competition with 2691 points.

Tom Reese of Claremont-Mudd finished the first day ninth.

Leading the field after Wednesday's competition was Paul Fink of Cal State Fullerton with 3358 points.

There were two competitors compiling more points than Fink, but they were competing unattached. Mike Riddle of the Marine Academy recorded 3579 points, while Rex Harvey of Air Force picked up 3546.

The first day events included the 100 meter dash, long jump, shot put, high jump and the 400 meter run.

Action resumed today at 1 p.m. today with the 110 meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1500 meter run listed on the agenda.

The leaders after the first day of the fourth annual California Invitational Decathlon championships at Azusa Pacific College.

1. Paul Fink (CS Fullerton) 3258; 2. Steve Alexander (SoCal College) 3161; 3. Dave Bayless (CS Fullerton) 3088; 4. Dan Heolland (So. Utah St.) 2864; 5. Owen Stormo (Cal Lutheran) 2849; 6. Wayne Pumphry (Azusa Pacific) 2727; 7. Ian Cumming (Cal Lutheran) 2715; 8. Dennis Koupal (Azusa Pacific) 2691; 9. Tom Reese (Claremont-Mudd) 2626.

Northwest loop holds tryouts

POMONA — The final tryouts for the Pomona Northwest Little League will be held from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at the league's diamond at Kennedy Park, located off of Ganesha Boulevard at Elwood Avenue. The major league draft will be held later that afternoon.

Minor leaguers will be asked to report to the park on March 30 to learn their team assignments.

USC suffers 10-2 drubbing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The University of Southern California took a 10-2 drubbing Wednesday from Santa Clara University at Bovard Field.

Santa Clara rightfeilder Gene Deylon and second baseman Mike denevi led the attack by driving in eight runs. Each hit a homerun and each batted in four runs.

NBA expansion meeting planned

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Governors of the National Basketball Association will hold a special meeting March 27 to discuss further expansion plans for the 1974-75 season.

New Orleans was added as the NBA's 18th franchise a couple of weeks ago and a second expansion franchise may be awarded next week during the meeting in Beverley Hills, Calif.

Southwest loop holds sign-ups for older boys

POMONA — Sign-ups for the Pomona Southwest Little League Senior Division and Big League teams will be held from noon to 2 p.m. Saturday at Ralph Welch Park, located at Buena Vista and Ninth streets. The same schedule will be followed on March 30.

In case of rain, the sign-ups will be taken at the Westmont Community Center.

Senior Division serves boys in the 13-15 age group while Big League accepts candidates in the 16-18 bracket. Candidates should bring a birth certificate.

Additional information about the program is available by telephoning (213) 339-4786 or (714) 629-1412.

Kings open in tournament

LOS ANGELES — The Pomona Kings have drawn the 1973 regional champions in Friday's opening round game of the Northeast Softball Association pre-season Tournament.

The double elimination tourney will consist of 10 teams, six from the Northeast League and four from the West Coast League and will run tonight through Sunday.

Manager Bob Crampton, of the Northeast League's Kings, has selected Doug Phillips to hurl Friday's 7:30 p.m. against the regional champs, Surebreak, at Smith Park in Los Angeles.

MSAC track

Coach claims Cerritos meet looks even

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Coach Don Ruh thought his Mt. San Antonio College track team would get a stiffer test than it did against Orange Coast last week.

Now he thinks the Mounties' meet at home against Cerritos Friday should be a tough one.

If he is as accurate as he was the first time, MSAC should have its second South Coast Conference track victory sewn up and will remain unbeaten in SCC competition.

"On paper Orange Coast was a better team than we were," Ruh said Tuesday at the weekly track luncheon in Pomona. "But they turned out to be very weak. We host Cerritos Friday and they are an even match with us on paper."

Just to show you how close Orange Coast came to beating MSAC, the score ended up 110-35. Not even close.

The Mounties will begin their meet against Cerritos with the field events at 3 p.m. and the running events at 3:30 p.m.

Both the Mounties and the Falcons are 1-0 in conference action.

In other junior college track competition Friday, Citrus will host San Bernardino Valley College and Chaffey will travel to Grossmont in Mission Conference action. Both of those meets are scheduled for 3 p.m. starts.

Let's compare some of the marks MSAC will be running up against when Cerritos pays its visit:

—MSAC's Irwin Duarte holds a 9.9 clocking in the 100, while Cerritos' Phil Serna only posted a second-place 10.2 last week against Santa Ana.

—Durate and Serna hold identical times in the 220. The MSAC sprinter has a best of 22.4, while Serna won the event with that identical time last week.

—MSAC should do pretty well in the half mile since the Mounties' best times are held by Greg Whalen (1:56.7) and Steve Youngblood (1:57.9). Cerritos half-miler Carolos Ponce finished second last week in 1:59.0.

—It should be an interesting battle between MSAC miler Steve Koenig and Cerritos' Jeff English. Koenig's best so far this season in 4:15.9, while English posted a 4:19.6 last week.

—There doesn't seem to be much competition for the Mounties in the hurdles since Cerritos' hurdler Ken Baguley cleared the 120 highs in 17.6 and MSAC's Dwight Owens has done a 14.8.

—Again MSAC has the edge in the high jump since Steve Miller has posted a 6-7 ¾, while Steve Eades cleared only 6-2 last week for the Falcons.

—Leaper Stan Bland shouldn't have any trouble winning the long jumper and triple jump for the Mounties. His bests are 22-6 in the long and 46-7 in the triple, while Cerritos' Serna has done a 21-1½ in the long and Frank Slater has posted a 43-10 in the triple.

—Scott Flox should win the shot put, but Mike Zachaweija might have trouble with Ron Dumphy in the discus. Zack's best is 142-0, while Dumphy hurled a 158-10 last week.

—Cerritos has the best shot at the javelin, however.

Looks like another rout.

Chaffey (1-1) has the task of facing defending Mission Conference champion Grossmont. The Panthers don't appear to have the odds in their favor this time, since the Griffins are favored to come away with the conference title once again.

All-around star David Nugent figures to see action the the pole vault, javelin and high jump. Tony Lewis will try to nail down victories in the hurdles.

Citrus (4-0) will have a definite edge in the sprints with Rick Wilmoth figuring to win both the 100 and the 220. He ran the 100 in 9.6 last week, and was named the valley's junior college athlete of the week in track.

"Our field event men are showing some rapid improvement," said Owl coach Ed Conly.

Pitchers dominating action in early prep baseball play

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

Pitching dominated Tuesday's Pomona Valley prep baseball action as five shutouts and two one-run decisions were recorded by the 15 teams.

Friday's action should follow suit as competition within the San Antonio, Hacienda, Citrus Belt and Montview Leagues features equally talented teams.

The big game in the SAL will match Claremont against Upland on the Wolfpack diamond. Both teams posted opening day wins with Claremont edging Damien 3-2, and Upland nipping Ganesha 6-4.

Pack coach Steve Lambert has penciled in John Huddleston to start against the Scots. Huddleston (3-1) was downed by the Highlanders in the Chaffey Baseball Tournament, 2-0, despite giving up just three hits.

"I feel like we have a pretty good team," said Upland coach Herb Christian. "I think we could be a good representative of the league or at least be a contender come playoff time."

Among the Scots' forte's is experience. The Highlanders 14 of their 18 man squad all returning and with a 6-2 slate at this stage of the season, their start is much better than in the previous years.

"We're not a power team by any means," said the 10-year veteran. "But we have consistent hitters in Mark Schneekluth, Russ Feaster and Stu DuVall."

"Pitching should be one of our stronger points. Steve Illes should be out No. 1 man with Rich Phillips (3-0), Joe Zalmudio (1-0) and Bob Hale (1-0) vying for the No. 2 spot."

Christian summed up his optimism by adding that, "We have returnees at every position except third base and left field and we have capable replacements, so our defense should be pretty good."

Illes has drawn the starting assignment against the Pack Friday with the opposing moundsman being John Huddleston, whom the Scots are familiar—yet unfamiliar with.

"We saw him the Chaffey Tournament and did have too much luck with him," continued Christian. "He's a control pitcher, not very fast or strong, but he puts the ball where he wants which is very important."

Upland is 6-2 on the year while Claremont is 5-2.

In other SAL play, Pomona travels to Garey for an important contest as both are seeking their first league victories.

The other SAL contest will match the hitting of Montclair against the Ganesha sticks.

The Cavs bombed out nine runs and 10 hits against Pomona while Ganesha blew three run lead and ended up on the short end of a 6-4 decision to the Scots.

In Hacienda play, Bonita (5-3 and 2-0) will send either Jerry Osborne (0-2) or Billy Bumstead (4-0, 2-0) to the mound in hopes to make Royal Oak (0-2) its third straight victim. If Bumstead gets the nod he'll be after his fourth straight shutout as the sophomore righthander has 21 consecutive scoreless innings.

San Dimas visits Walnut in an important encounter as both teams (1-1) are trying to climb above the .500 mark.

The Saints, after losing their league opener to Bonita 11-0 came back Tuesday to halt Ontario 2-0.

APC power, luck beats Stags, 7-6

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — Azusa Pacific had the knockout punch and good luck. Claremont-Mudd lacked the big punch and had terrible luck. That was the difference in Wednesday's baseball game at APC.

Curt Mitchell's three-run homer in the seventh inning and Ken Nance's solo shot in the eighth were the punches that KO'd the Stags in a 7-6 APC win.

The Cougars were lucky enough to overcome seven errors and spotty pitching. The luckless Stags outhit APC 11-6 but left nine runners stranded. They also made only two errors. But the miscues came back-to-back in the four-run Cougar seventh inning and cost a run.

Even so it went right down to the final out. The tying run was thrown out at the plate to end the game.

"We're not there yet," Cougar coach Tom Nelson said. "We're coming, but we're still not where I'd like us to be." The Cougars have won four straight and now are 7-7 for the season.

"It was a good try, but we couldn't quite make it," remarked Bill Arce of the Stags. "We had the opportunities to score but just couldn't come up with the big hit."

Claremont-Mudd now is 7-5 for the season. The Stags travel to Cal Lutheran for a pair of non-conference games Saturday while APC plays two divisional games at Biola.

C-M jumped on Mark Allen for a run in the first inning. But the fact that the Stags had a leadoff double, a walk, a single and stolen base, and a sacrifice fly yet scored only once was indicative of the way things went.

On the other hand, APC scored a run off Mike Bruno without the aid of a hit and without getting the ball out of the infield in the sore-armed righthander's two inning stint. Bruno and Brad Rehn gave up only one hit through the first six innings.

Two walks and two successive infield outs produced the run in the second inning.

The Stags scored without aid of a hit in the fourth on two errors by Ted Dominguez. But Dominguez doubled to lead off the Cougar half of the inning, went to third on a passed ball and scored while the Stags were completing a double play.

Doubles but Rattet and Wynn Moore gave C-M a run in the fifth. Singles by Jamie Opatrny and Rattet sandwiched around an error produced another tally in the sixth.

But the Cougars' four-run seventh gave them a 6-4 lead. The Stags battled back to tie it in the eighth. Pinch singles by Andy Roundtre and Bill Vasek, two errors and Moore's single made it a 6-6 game, but APC came right back to win it on Nance's smash, his fifth of the season.

Claremont teams advance in AYSO

CLAREMONT — Four Claremont teams advanced in the state American Youth Soccer Organization (AYSO) playoffs with victories last week.

The Division I boys' Jets blanked the Canoga Park Trojans, 1-0, on Jim Todd's goal in the first quarter. Mike Folden got a rare assist for a goalie on the score when he booted the ball three-quarters down the field to set-up Todd's point.

Other top defensive performances besides Folden came from Rex Rockwell and Danny Layne.

The Jets will play at Granada Hills Saturday.

The Division II boys' Mustangs had an easy time whipping the Canoga Park Cavaliers, 7-1. Terry Boer's three goals sparked the Mustangs while John Baugus and Jim Knight contributed two apeice. Jeff Bolln stood out on defense with Phil Wootton and Mike Holtzman controlling the mid-field area.

The Mustangs will play Altadena in a quarter-final game at Pasadena High at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Despite having only 10 girls because of illness, the Division II Condors were able to beat the West Torrance Sharks, 1-0, on Sarah Oss" direct penalty kick in the fourth quarter.

Goalie Molly Herman made several key saves for the Condors while sweeper Shella Swick and centerback Debbie Doran led the defense. Halfbacks Michelle Folden and Laura Myers helped the Condors to dominate the game.

The Condors will play at Granada Hills Saturday in their quarter-final game.

The Division III girls' Ravens will open their playoff bid by hosting Sierra Madre at Oakmont Field at 2 p.m. Saturday.

In Division III boys' action, the Claremont Greyhounds were eliminated by Encino, 1-0, in an overtime contest.

PSL clubs enjoy wins in playoffs

CLAREMONT — Four Claremont Pacific Soccer League teams advanced in the sudden-death PSL Cup semifinals last weekend.

The Division I Stars, consisting of several Claremont, Damien and Ganesha High players, rolled to a 10-0 win over Los Angeles Liverpool in the National Cup action.

Damien's Bart Sullivan led the scoring with three goals followed by two each from Claremont's Jim Van Zee and Ron Thomas. Orlando Aponte, Gesner DoCarmo and Jesus Chavez scored one goal apiece. The Stars will play again at 2 p.m. Saturday against the Northeast Internationals at Griffith Park in Los Angeles.

Claremont's big upset came in Division 4 play as the Spittin' Imaga Knights stunned Central Division champion Torrance in a 3-1 upset victory.

Tony Massagli and George Caucas scored goals unassisted while Todd Hart scored on a fast break on an assist by Greg Byrich. The Knights will face Culver City at Long Beach's Heartwell Park this Saturday.

Claremont's two Division Three clubs, the Kings and Stars, met in the round-robin playoff action. The Kings won, 1-0, on John Mack's goal. Goalie Grant Warahurst, Craig Biewener and Mark McCallom led the defense to the shutout win.

The Stars will face the Hawthorne Mustangs in PSL Cup semifinal play while the Kings will complete their playoff schedule by hosting the San Pedro Blue Jacks at 1 p.m. Sunday at El Roble Intermediate School. The Stars will entertain Culver City at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Division 5 Stars blanked Culver City, 4-0, as Allen Pitts and Jeff Ratajczek each scored two goals while the Stars' defense enjoyed its 22nd shutout. The Stars will entertain the Turstin Hornets at 10 a.m. Saturday at El Roble in the PSL Cup semifinals.

Utah, Boston College favored in NIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Utah is a 5-point favorite over Memphis State and Boston College a 2-point pick over Connecticut in Thursday night games which wind up the quarter-final round of the National Invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

The winners advance to semifinal berths against each other on Saturday afternoon when Jacksonville and Purdue, which won quarter-final games on Tuesday night, will clash in the other game. The nationally-televised final round is on Sunday afternoon.

Utah impressed with a powerful attack in its opening round 102-89 victory over Rutgers, which included the tournament's highest single-game scoring performance so far, 34 points by Ticky Burden.

The Redskins have the best record, 20-7, of any of the four teams on the Thursday program and Burden is backed up by Tyrone Medley, who had 27 points against Rutgers, and Mike Sojourner, who had 23 points and 13 rebounds.

Memphis State's Tigers, on the other hand, barely squeaked through the opening round with a 73-72 decision over Seton Hall and its top scorer, senior guard Bill Laurie, had 18 points.

Boston College (19-8) also was only a one-point winner in the opening, 63-62, over Cincinnati. The Eagles, a losing finalist in the NIT in 1969, will have a height advantage at four of the five starting spots over Connecticut (19-7) which scored a surprise 82-70 win over St. John's in the opening round.

The U-Conns, the closest thing to a "home" team the tournament has now that St. John's, Manhattan, and Rutgers have been ousted, are bringing several thousand fans from their campus 150 miles away. Leading the Nutmeggers is 6-1 senior guard Jimmy Foster, who was a standout in the opening round when he sank 11 of 16 shots and totaled 27 points.

Sports car slalom set at fairgrounds

POMONA — OttoKros Racing Team and Mestizo Sports Car Club will co-sponsor a Southern California Council of Sports Car Club (SCC of SCC) Open Slalom Sunday at the Pomona Fairgrounds.

Safety Tech inspection is scheduled to begin at 7:30 a.m. and will run to 2:30 p.m.

The first timed run will begin at 8 a.m.

Entry fees for the slalom are $4.50 for a couple or $7 for an individual.

Valley Tires and Team Sprite have made arrangements for special awards to be given to the first and second place entrants. Through the OttoKros Racing Team, the awards will be Gummout's "Clean Team."

Jon Olsen won first place in the recent DeMolay Car Rallye which was co-sponsored by Pomona Valley Shopping Center and the Claremont Chapter of DeMolay. Olsen won with a 94.5 point error mark.

Rick Verberg won second place, while Phil Wray and his team navigator Bill Beaumont took third place honors.

Bill Barrett and Scott Kolves won the Hardluck Award.

'Pack golfers defeat Damien

SAN DIMAS — Claremont High opened its San Antonio League golf season this year by defeating host Damien, 199-218, Wednesday at the Via Verde golf course in San Dimas Canyon.

The Wolfpack was led by Clay Atcheson's par 36 for the nine holes, and he was followed by Mike Bicker and Ralph Hawes with 38s.

Frank Sowen posted a 39, while Andy Koppel shot a four-over par 40.

The Claremont junior varsity also won, 211-243.

The 'Pack was scheduled to meet Downey today at 1 p.m. at the Rio Hondo's 18-hole public course.

Claremont will then face Chino in SAL play next Wednesday at 2:15 p.m. on the Western Hills course on Carbon Canyon Road in Chino.

"Every student, faculty member and staff member will have a box here," explained Ortmayer. "We obviously think this building will be the center of campus activity. If, for instance, someone has been trying to reach me and I'm not in my office, they might leave a note in my box. When I come in and check my box, I get the message."

Unique to the socializing area on the southern end of the building is an "electric floor" under which runs electrical wiring and communication circuits.

Small portable terminal boxes, the size of a cigar box, plug directly into the floor through self closing flaps in the carpeting.

Called the Sippican Power Communications System, each terminal box provides jacks for telephone lines, electrical outlets, or five communication channels that can provice radio or television broadcasts as well as a variety of typed or recorded selections for individual or group listening.

"The beauty of this," explained Ortmayer, "is that no matter where you are in this area, you are no more than two feet away from connecting yourself to a telephone, electric power, or eight other circuits."

An inlaid hardwood walkway, lighted by large globular, imitation-gas lamps, links the four interest areas.

In each area, flexible screens, paneling and scaffolding are readily available to adapt the space for any desired use.

Located above the central core area and reached by any of four circular stairways at each corner of the structure is the 14,000 square foot intercollegiate athletic court.

In any other building,it might be called simply the gymnasium. But it is like no "gym" ever built before.

The 120 by 120 feet area has a Uniturf floor. Marked out on its surface are three basketball courts, three volleyball courts, and eight badminton courts.

Towering overhead are four of the mighty water-filled columns supporting the Teflon-coated Fiberglas material that is both roof and walls at the same time.

Upon entering, the feeling can best be described as being "under the big top."

"When you come up here to play volleyball, you will be playing on a volleyball court," remarked Ortmayer. "And if you come up to play badminton or basketball, you'll be playing on a badminton or basketball court."

Six portable glass basketball backboards can be moved into place for basketball.

Portable bleachers seating 910 will be available to use in any configuration for any sport.

"The stands are about nine feet high and fold up into 2½ feet of space," explained Ortmayer. For wrestling we'll put them in a big horseshoe around two or three mats. For volleyball they'll be different and for basketball still different."

Currently the tennis team practices on the new floor and plans are also to have it marked off for tennis.

Perhaps the greatest idea of all is that not only La Verne College but the public is also going to be able to take advantage of the facility.

Currently it is open two nights a week and on Sunday afternoon to non-student use.

"We want the community to become involved, too," said Ortmayer. "I've seen too many facilities where, if you ask it it's available, the answer is no. This building will be available."

One of Ortmayer's future projects is to see if he can't open the facility from 5 a.m. to 7 a.m. mornings to persons interested in physical fitness programs such as jogging, weights, and a general conditioning program under supervision.

"It could be open to bankers or laborers or housewives or secretaries," envisioned the coach. "I think this will enhance the quality and life of our student body and and the community."

Wrestling coach Craig Bowser first used the the facility to hold the SCIAC wrestling championships. "I think it's going to be one of the most fantastic, well-rounded, best used structures in Southern California," he commented. "People are in awe when they walk in. For wrestling, it's far superior to anything I've ever seen. I call it the La Verne Astrodome. . .it's a super athletic room."

Jim Paschal, cross country and tennis coach, has been designated manager of the facility. "The building itself will make more activities available to more people," he observed. "It's like shopping in a super market where a person says, 'hey, I'd like to try this and this.'

"There is nothing like it anywhere as far as education is concerned," he continued. "I think some of the possibilities are going to be new approaches in teaching. It will create situations where we have people having more activities available to them and they are going to participate. . .where we have kids come in and participate and become proficient and then register for credit."

The news media will get a chance to tour the new facility and judge for itself. A luncheon and tour of the new Supertent (or tepee) is planned for April 4.

College golfers tee off

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The bulk of college golf's top names tee off Thursday in the Aztec Invitational tournament which serves as a preview to the NCAA championship.

The tournament at the Carlton Oaks County Club features top-rated University of Florida, second-ranked Houston and third-ranked University of Southern California.

Others entered are host San Diego State, Fresno State, San Jose State, New Mexico, New Mexico State, Oklahoma State, Long Beach State, Arizona State and Brigham Young.

Although USC has lost two of nine dual meets this year and Florida is undefeated, the Trojans should be tough to beat.

Jayhawks proud of cage tradition

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — The University of Kansas is a school rich in basketball tradition. In 75 years, the Jayhawks have had only five basketball coaches.

They started with Dr. James Naismith, the inventor of the game who coached nine years on Mount Oread. Then came W. O. Hamilton, Dr. Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, Dick Harp and Ted Owens.

In all those years, Kansas has had only 14 losing basketball seasons. And five were under Naismith in the pre-1910 era.

So it should be no shock that the Jayhawks are survivors to the final round of the 1974 NCAA basketball tournament.

But it is.

All the tradition didn't help Kansas the last two seasons when the Jayhawks posted 11-15 and 8-18 records, Owens' first losing years since taking over from Harp in 1964.

Certainly, no one was prepared for Kansas' 23-5 campaign, especially not the 13-1 record in the Big Eight Conference where they were relegated to no better than a fourth-place finish in pre-season guesses.

But the Jayhawks escaped the Big Eight with a 60-55 victory over arch-rival Kansas State on March 7, vaulting into the NCAA Midwest Regional last weekend at Tulsa.

Kansas simply outlasted the regional field, edging Creighton, 55-54, and host Oral Roberts, 93-90, in overtime.

Did Owens feel lucky to win the regional tournament

"No, I felt like a winner," he remarked Tuesday.

"I admit I wasn't bubbling over with confidence during the last five minutes against Oral Roberts, but I was like the guys, I never did give up. I thought we had a chance."

Kansas trailed Oral Roberts by nine points with 4 ½ minutes to play and by seven as late as 3:19.

Now Kansas is in a position to benefit from the new NCAA ruling which rotates pairings in the national finals. While UCLA (25-3) and North Carolina State (28-1) are skinning each other, Kansas will go against Marquette (25-4) Saturday afternoon in the other semifinal game at Greensboro, N.C.

"It would appear on the surface that's true," Owens said. "But who knows in a four-team tournament? Someone could piece together a couple of good games and win it all."

Owens, however, likes the rotating pairings, which this year matches the West against the East and the Midwest against the Mideast.

"I think it's a darned good thing," he said. "There's no particular magic anymore to being Western champion or Eastern champion."

Owens rates his team's chances as no better than even against Marquette, though.

"They're a real quick, active team," he said. "They're a pressing defensive, very patient offensive team, which is kind of a trademark for Al McGuire's teams."

As for his team's season, Owens said, "Well, we had hopes when we started. But I don't know whether we realistically felt we could go this far. We just thought that if everything fell into place, we could be pretty good.".

Irwin defends title in Heritage Classic

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — The PGA tour comes to this island resort of the very rich Thursday for the start of the $200,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

Hale Irwin will be defending the title he won last September when he broke all Classic records in claiming a five stroke victory with a four-round total of 272. He finished seven shots better than the previous low aggregate over the 6,655 yard, par 71 Harbour Town course.

Irwin will be one of the favorites going into the first round along with 1974 multiple winners Johnny Miller and Hubert Green, the latter who is coming off his three-shot triumph at the Greater Jacksonville Open last week.

Arnold Palmer, a former winner whose better years are behind, Tom Weiskopf and Lanny Wadkins also will be on hand, while Billy Casper and Australia's Bruce Crampton, two other tour stars who have yet to win this term, will be making their initial appearances in the tournament.

Casper, famed for his accuracy, is expected to perform well over the Harbour Town course with its narrow fairways and dangerous water hazards.

Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino elected to pass up the event.

The tournament will be televised for the first time in its six-year history when the final holes are broadcast Saturday and Sunday.

Maury's son paces Devils

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Second baseman Bump Wills, son of former Los Angeleles Dodger hero Maury Wills, hit three homers and drove in seven runs Wednesday night to lead Arizona State University to a 13-3 victory over Cal State Fullerton.

Stock bass in county reservoir

LONG BEACH — Seven-hundred brood largemouth bass have been planted by the State Department of Fish and Game in Pyramid Reservoir, Los Angeles County, in an effort to establish a bass fishery there.

Pyramid, one of the newest reservoirs in the California Aqueduct, is scheduled to be opened to fishing this July. Previous plants there have included rainbow trout and channel catfish.

Fishery biologist Kenneth Aasen, who is in charge of stocking Pyramid, said the bass should spawn this spring, perhaps within the next six weeks.

Aasen said the Pyramid bass plant was one of several by the department in Southern California waters during the past two weeks.

One-hundred and fifty bass were planted in the Colorado River along the Parker Strip just north of Blythe. The others, totaling about 300, were placed in various undesignated waters in Orange, Los Angeles, Ventura and San Bernardino counties.

Aasen said he would prefer not to name the other locations at this time so the bass would have every chance to reproduce.

The bass were obtained by Fish and Game personnel from the Metropolitan Water District's Lake Mathews Reservoir in Riverside County and the Copper Basin Reservoir on the Colorado River 10 miles west of Parker Dam.

A MWD spokesman said that although Lake Mathews and Copper Basin Reservoir are closed to fishing, it is the district's policy to provide fish from them for stocking public waters.

Reservoir access fees increased

SACRAMENTO — The California Fish and Game Commission has increased the scale of maximum angler access fees that operators may charge on reservoirs receiving maintenance stocking of state-reared fish.

Commission action March 8 in San Francisco increased maximum allowable fees to $1.25 per day per car or 30 cents per day per person to reflect the 25 percent increase in the consumer price index since 1969 when the old schedule was adopted. The former schedule provided for fees of $1 and 25 cents, respectively.

The commission's scale of maximum allowable fees applies only to nonprofit fishing reservoirs that receive maintenance stocking of state fish.

Lake operators who match the state's stocking program with fish purchased from private fish farms and who reinvest all fishing access revenues in the fishing program are permitted somewhat higher fees. There are about 30 reservoirs in the state covered under one system or the other.

Commissioners also ordered the staff to request the attorney general's office to take action to force the Whale Rock Commission to comply with an agreement to open Whale Rock Reservoir, San Luis Obispo County, to public fishing.

In other action, the commission announced its intention to prohibit the commercial take off frogs in California for scientific and educational purposes.

On recommendation of the DFG, the commission earlier had banned the taking of frogs for scientific and educational purposes in Butte, Glenn, Colusa and Placer counties.

The DFG, in reporting results of a study of bullfrogs in preparation for development of a management plan, said that the resource cannot support both sport and commercial frogging.

The department is preparing suggested regulations which would reduce the bag limit and provide for a closed season. Legislation would be sought to regulate the commercial take for other purposes.

Commissioners are scheduled to take testimony at the April 5 meeting in Sacramento and make a decision at their May 3 meeting in San Diego.

Also at the San Francisco meeting, commissioners:

— Authorized the DFG to lease from the State Lands Commission about 100 acres of salt marsh habitat in Napa and Solano counties.

— Adopted regulations governing the importation and sale of sardines and removing the requirements to tag lobster during the closed season.

— Adopted a list of common names for market fish.

Ducks' death is a mystery

LONG BEACH — Department of Fish and Game pathologists in Sacramento are trying to discover what caused the death of nearly 2,500 ducks late last week in and around a dried-up reservoir near the city of San Jacinto in Riverside County.

The ducks were discovered Friday afternoon by Fish and Game personnel who spent the weekend buring them at the county dump. Several specimens were sent to Sacramento, however, for examination.

Pathologists so far have ruled out botulism and fowl cholera, two common forms of fatalities among waterfowls. They are investigating other possibilities.

Wildlife Manager - biologist Harold C. Cribbs said the ducks were found on the mud flat which until recently was San Jacinto Reservoir, in pasture land around the reservoir and on ponds of the Sunset Duck Club immediately adjacent to the seservoir site.

In all, Department of Fish and Game personnel found 2,450 widgeon, two Canada geese and one mallard duck.

"It appears as if they all died at once," Cribbs said.

La Jolla city fathers mull 'nude beach'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Nude swimming could become legal along a 300-yard stretch of La Jolla beach if the City Council approves an ordinance tentatively scheduled for consideration April 4.

Deputy City Manager John Lockwood said that the ordinance would allow nudity on part of the city-owned Black's Beach below the La Jolla Cliffs.

He said the area is secluded enough to meet the requirements of a state Supreme Court ruling.

The ordinance was proposed in an effort to resolve a controversy that erupted last summer when local residents objected to the many nude bathers who used the beach adjoining the Torrey Pines State Beach.

Claudette Colbert on L.A. stage

LOS ANGELES — Claudette Colbert will be making her first Los Angeles stage appearance when she comes to the Shubert Theater starting March 26 as the star of Jerome Chodorov's new comedy, "A Community of Two."

The comedy is done in orthodox style.

To regain her own identity, Miss Colbert leaves her husband and takes over a condominium in a refurbished brownstone in the midst of Westside Manhattan. Her next door neighbor, and co-star, is George Gaynes who left the Broadway musical "Gigi" to share the footlights with Miss Colbert.

The play has been on tour for several months and has been hailed enthusiastically by press and public. It is directed by Chodorov.

FIRST TIME — Claudette Colbert will make her first Los Angeles stage appearance with George Gaynes in "A Community of Two," opening March 26 at the Shubert Theater, Los Angeles. The Jerome Chodorov comedy is on its pre-Broadway tour. Tickets are on sale at most agencies.

Ticket Stubs

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

CAPSULE REVIEW by Mae Tate—"The River Niger," Joseph Walker's play running through March 31 at the Huntington Hartford Theater, is a realistic and gripping portrait of contemporary black life in a metropolitan slum.

Douglas Turner Ward, palywright himself and actor, presents the most fascinating role in the Negro Ensemble Company presentation in his portrayal of Johnny Williams, poet, house painter, alcoholic, devoted if wandering husband, and father who pushes son Jeff (Les Roberts) into the older Williams' dreams of accomplishment.

Ward is delightful as he cusses and fusses through the lives of his loved ones. A commanding, beautifully boisterous character.

Robin Braxton as Johnny's wife Mattie is a gracefully tall and distinguished woman with skin the color of rich cocoa and a dignity about her that holds the family together and tolerates its shortcomings. Hilda Haynes as the ever-mourning, Bible-quoting, sleep-walking (for whisky) grandmother whops the audience with several belts of humor.

This play has a corner of black life that is startling. It grabs one up and pushes him through a menagerie of feeling from paint to anger to laughter to tears to glee to remorse. It thunders like a vicious storm in parts and then just rolls along like a smooth river in others.

Roberts as Jeff is good sometimes, unreal too many times. Armandina Lihamba as his girl friend Ann is a bit snipering and phony, a character that wouldn't really be missed if her role was cut.

The revolutionaries—Charles Brown, Kim Sullivan, Sylvia Soares, Charles Gant-Greene and Carl Gordon—are sufficient in their presentations.

"The River Niger" is not only a beautiful black poem, but a play of new proportions that perceives and presents some black folk just as they are without delusion or window dressing.

Hunting accident rate up, but fatals at record low

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Ten persons were killed in California hunting accidents last year, equalling the record low of 1971 and 1972, the state Department of Fish and Game said this week.

However, the number of hunting mishaps and the accident rates both climbed. The department reported injuries to 87 persons in 1973 and set the accident rate at 1.29 for every 10,000 hunters.

The 10 hunting deaths tied the record for the fewest number set in 1971 and equalled in 1972. Until 1971, there was no year in which hunting fatalities totaled fewer than 11 set in 1969, the agency said.

In a report, the department said deer hunters suffered the most accidents at 25 followed by pheasant hunters at 18 and squirrel shooters at 12.

AWARD NOMINEES — The Chaparral Brothers, nominated for awards as the Best Singing Group by the Academy of Country Music, will perform at the John Wayne Theater of Knott's Berry Farm at 6, 7:30 and 9 p.m. Saturday. Also appearing at the Buena Park amusement center this weekend will be Brush Arbor.

Printmaker to display at Scripps

CLAREMONT — Leonard Edmondson, award-winning printmaker whose innovations in producing color etchings has influenced printmakers throughout America, will be the second artist to participate in the Scripps College Visiting Artists Program.

Edmondson, now teaching printmaking at Otis Art Institute of Los Angeles, will give a public lecture and slide presentation on current modes of printmaking at 1:30 p.m. Monday in Balch Auditorium at Scripps, 10th Street and Columbia Avenue.

On Monday morning, he will participate in a printmaking class taught by James Fuller in the Libra Building.

Former chairman of the art department at Cal State Los Angeles, he has also taught at Pasadena City College and UC Berkeley. A Guggenheim Fellow, Edmondson recently directed a printmaking workshop in Altadena called "The Pioneer Press" that provided instruction and work space for artists interested in making prints using the photo engraving technique.

Funded by a National Endowment for the Arts matching grant to Scripps, the Visiting Artists Program brings prominent artists to the campus where their presentations are filmed by the Scripps Film Arts Program, headed by Paul Darrow, art professor, and Ted Kerzie, assistant professor of art and program coordinator.

A copy of the film goes to the NEA for distribution to other U.S. educational institutions.

LOVELY BALLERINA — Sara Leland, star of the New York City Ballet, will be guest artist in five performances of the Los Angeles Ballet Theater Tuesday through next Saturday at the Wilshire Ebell Theater.

Rock star to perform

SAN BERNARDINO — Johnny Winter, rock superstar, will appear in concert at 8 p.m. Friday in Swing Auditorium as the 59th National Orange Show goes into its final weekend.

The supporting group will be Brownsville Station.

Winter has recorded such tunes as "Please Release Me" and "Shadow of Your Smile" as well as blues and hard rock music. The 30-year-old Winter has a younger brother, Edgar, who also has achieved superstar status in hard rock.

Advance tickets which include admission to the Orange Show grounds are $5.50. Tickets at the Swing box office the night of the concert will be $5.

No fish in 10 years, warns ocean expert

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jacques Cousteau, best known of oceanographers and explorers of the sea, made a statement this week that should shock the socks off every inhabitant of the planet:

"In ten years there will not be any fish remaining to take out of the ocean."

The distinguished inventor of the aqualung and other underwater devices surely must have been overstating his case.

"Not at all," said the Frenchman. "I could not be more realistic. I am not an alarmist. But I know that the rate with which the oceans are being depleted and befouled by man that we can no longer harvest the sea as we have.

"We keep taking out and putting nothing back. It is a fact that if an area of the ocean no larger in size than Switzerland were farmed and cultivated like the land, there would be more fish and other sea life than there is now."

Cousteau was in Hollywood to edit the last of his "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" television shows of the year. It is the final of four episodes filmed in the Antarctic at a cost of more than $1 million. Titled "Blizzard at Hope Bay," the segment will be seen Friday on ABC-TV.

In addition to his 65 films on a variety of undersea fauna, Cousteau has written 31 books on the subject of the sea, including a 20-volume encyclopedia.

He stresses over and over again conservation and concern for the environment. He has beseeched governments, including the United States, to pass measures to protect the environment.

"I find a lot of sympathy and concern," Cousteau said, "but very little action on the part of politicians. But I won't give up.

"We are just becoming aware that human beings are nothing more than one more animal in the life cycle. Life cannot exist without a clean water cycle and if we muddle that up we are commiting suicide."

Each of Cousteau's television films —which are seen in 117 countries—subtly gets across the message that wild life must be preserved, the balance of nature maintained.

Discrimination bill approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Discrimination on the basis of race or sex would be grounds for revoking the license of anyone regulated by the state under a bill passed by the Senate.

The vote Tuesday was 21-14, the bare majority required to return the measure to the Assembly for consideration of amendments.

Physicians, architects, barbers and real estate salesmen would be affected by the proposal (AB1774) sponsored by Assemblyman Julian Dixon, D-Los Angeles.

The bill adds discrimination on the basis of race, color, sex, religion, ancestry or national origin to the list of violations under which disciplinary action could be taken.

Current law provides for cash damages to individuals who suffer discriminatory practices.

Lotteries old hat

Lotteries, raising monies for public as well as private ends, orginated in Florence about 1530.

Room 9 plans comedy play

CLAREMONT — Room 9 at Sycamore Elementary School will present a comedy, "Time and Time Again," at the school auditorium Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Student body president Shelley Grant will play the role of Mae West in the play.

Tickets cost 50 cents for adults, and 25 cents for those 12 and under.

Room 9 is taught by Lenny Katz.

South Koreans warn U.S. GIs of streaking

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — U.S. military authorities in South Korea warned Wednesday American streakers will face a stiff penalty under Korean Laws, if arrested.

The warning came after a South Korean police announcement that streakers would be charged with public indecency and face up to one year in prison or a fine of about $100.

Chino Future Farmers to exhibit at Plaza

CHINO — Exhibits of the Chino chapter, Future Farmers of America, are on display this week at the Montclair Plaza through Sunday.

Vocational agricultural studies will be emphasized under the central theme "F.F.A. Preparing for Tomorrow's Agriculture Today." Booths on dairy production, horsemanship, livestock production, agricultural mechanics and a landscaped patio display will be featured. A scale model of the new agricultural skills center being built at Don Antonio Lugo High School will be on display.

Live demonstrations and films presented by Chino students are part of the display this year. Students will be on hand near the demonstrations on small engine repair, horsemanship, livestock and dairy to answer questions.

A petting zoo of small farm animals will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Montgomery Ward's parking lot.

Tax mistakes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI — According to the Illinois Department of Revenue, mistakes made by taxpayers on their returns doubles and sometimes triples the time needed to process the returns. This often is the reason for delayed refunds.

Couple count their blessings

By ERMA BOMBECK

My husband and I liked to have died laughing the other day over an article about a couple who were getting a divorce because . . . get this . . . she didn't spread mayonnaise on his sandwich all the way to the edge of the bread.

Divorce isnt funny, but as I said to him, "Isnt it incredible how little things bug a person to the point of a legal separation?

He wiped the tears from his eyes and said, "I just can't believe that something so little could get so big." Then he added, "I mean for years I've lived with your warm pickles and it's no big deal."

"What warm pickles, dear?" I said still smiling.

"Any pickles," he said. "Any home ec dropout knows that pickles are supposed to be served cold, but if you insist on serving them right out of the cupboard, it isn't that important to me."

"Then why are you mentioning it?"

"Because I'm such a sport about it and I wanted you to know."

"Well, aren't you generous," I said. "As long as you forgive me for my warm pickles, I forgive you for putting your underwear into the laundry inside out for the last 20 years."

"Is that such a big thing for you to turn them rightside out?"

"Not unless your arm is broken, it isn't."

"Speaking of broken arms, why is it you never learned how to screw in a simple fuse in the fuse box?"

"For the same reason you never learned to hang up a simple towel on a towel rack."

"You're not perfect, you know," he said breathing harder. "You leave a trail of cold coffee mugs all over this house like Hansel and Gretel leaving crumbs. It's really gross."

"And I suppose it is more gross than feeding the dog at the table?"

"You should be so lucky. THE DOG EATS OUT!"

"I don't see you starving to death. In fact, a few more pounds and you can start singing as a group."

"That's a pretty crummy thing to say for a woman who eats Danish while I jog a mile every morning."

"Running a 23-minute mile isn't going to earn you any medals."

The paper fell to the floor and we both looked at it.

"Imagine! Someone getting a divorce for not spreading the mayonaise right."

"Yeah," said my husband wistfully. "They should have our problems."

FBI official claims widespread misconception about NCIC

By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I've never known a topic to have more misinformation about it than NCIC," said Assistant FBI Director Wason Campbell, who is in charge of the National Crime Information Center. 4

The FBI has criminal records on 21 million individuals in its manual files, but the "misconceptions" Campbell wanted straighted out concerned the 445,803 "rap sheets" already stored in a big computer below his office.

The computer, with its leased wires linking all FBI bureaus and state and big-city data systems across the nation, has a potential for abusing individual privacy that has raised an outcry of concern.

In Campbell's view, much of the concern is based on misinformation—such as that contained in a story circulated by Gov. Frnacis W. Sargent of Massachusetts. Last fall Sargent released this letter from a citizen of his state:

"A scary thing happened to me last spring," the man wrote. "A relative of mine got a job as a deputy sheriff. One bored night on dispatcher duty he ran his family through the NCIC. Ten out of 11 of us were listed.

"His mother was listed because, when she was 18, neighbors complained of a noisy sorority party. (No arrests). His stepfather, a respected businessman, was listed because he complained to the police that he had received a bad check," the letter continued.

"Ten out of 11 of us! No criminal record. But we are on the files of the NCIC! P.S. I'll probably be listed again for writing this letter."

Campbell said the FBI since has received a letter from the deputy sheriff himself from his home in a Midwest state denying he ever said any of the things his relative wrote Sargent about.

The deputy wrote that he demonstrated his NCIC terminal to relatives who visited his headquarters last year and told them about the criminal history files.

"To make a point," he wrote, "I used simple deduction and told them it could have information on persons with prior records (such as those mentioned in the letter to Sargent)."

"At no time did I tell them that this information was there," he said.

Campbell's main concern was to prove that such things not only are not in the computer but could not possibly be there.

"If the public realized two points," Campbell told UPI, "I think we could avoid many of the misconceptions. To be in the 'wanted' file there must be a warrant outstanding charging a felony or serious misdemeanor. For the criminal history file, there must have been an arrest, followed by fingerprinting."

Section Chief Norman F. Stultz took over at this point to explain that because of the way it is programmed, the computer will not and cannot receive any informatiion that does not follow prescribed formats.

Somewhat like a questionnaire with spaces for answers, the computer has spaces provided for coded information, but will not accept any that does not comply with the format.

"The computer is a dumb animal," he said. "It will not accept extraneous information."

However, a technn win the big computer room p$ter gave this unusual reply when a reporter asked what three or four men on duty were doing as they moved about the rows and rows of electronic equipment:

"All they do is follow instructions issued by the computer."

The technician quickly added that the "instructions" were the end results of programming devised by humans. The computer, a series of shoulder-high cabinets displaying panels of flashing lights, still was a "dumb animal" despite its quick and accurate responses.

Actually there are two computers, one is use and one on standby, accompanied by a rows of magnetic disk storage units, magnetic drum storage units, terminals, line monitors, card readers and punchers, and telecommunications equipment. All of them are interconnected.

They stand humming in a heavily guarded, low-ceiling room measuring about 50 by 100 feet that at first glance looks like a display room for everything the computer industry ever manufactured.

There is much more that cannot be seen—thousands of miles of leased lines connecting NCIC with 6,000 terminals in FBI ofices, state law enforcement headquarters and big-city police stations across the country.

Nor can one see what is inside—wanted persons, the records of stolen cars andsother property and the criminal histories. 4

"It is somewhat the ultimate tool of law enforcement," Campbell said. "It is impossible to know how many lives it has saved. You know (from a two-minute radio inquiry) that the car you are about to stop was associated with a bank robbery the day before or the week before."

Asked why he said qualified his remarks with the word "somewhat," Campbell shrugged and said:

"I don't know what the future holds."

Ready to date at 15

By JEAN ADAMS

DATING AGE: (Q.) I am 15. My mother tells me I am too young to date. She says I should wait until I'm 16. I asked her why and she said she started dating when she was 15 and she didn't think she was ready, so she wants me to wait.

She also told me she never learned about sex from her mother. She said she read books to find out and was 17 before she knew the things I knew when I was 14. I told her times have changed. What do you say?—Ready and Responsible in Connecticut

(A.) Many people, including parents, make the mistake of judging others by themselves. Most girls in the Unted States begin dating around 15 today.

My research shows that today's young people are more aware and perceptive than their parents were at the same age.

Also, I am convinced that healthy discussions of sex should begin very early in the home, school and church.

SHE DOES IT: (Q.) What's wrong with French kissing? Everybody does it, including me. Several guys I've gone out with have French-kissed me and I'm not in any trouble. you told a girl not to. Why?—16 and Wondering in Texas.

(A.) Because she was 13. You are 16 and should have a better idea of what might cause trouble for you.

I hope you do.

TRICK: (Q.) My girl friend and I played a rotten trick on a boy. We pretended that I liked him, just like he had done to a lot of girls and then dropped them. Well, now he likes me!

He told his friends he is going to ask me to go steady with him. How do I tell him that it was all a trick?—Worried in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Punishing others is not our job. You have learned that. Be honest with the boy. Tell him what you did and why. Also tell him that you now see that it was wrong. Apologize to him.

Draft lottery held

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sixth annual draft lottery was held Wednesday and young men born on February 28, 1955, will be the first to be called if some new national emergency should make it necessary for Congress to reinstate inductions.

In opening the capsule drawing ceremony, however Deputy Selective Service Director John D. Dewhurst said there was "no intention on the part of the President or on the leaders of Congress . . . to seek restoration of induction authority."

The President's draft authority expired July 1, 1973, and it would take new action by Congress to revive it.

In contrast to the first lottery in 1969 when hundreds of watching young people roared with delight or groaned with despair when their birthdates were matched against priority numbers, Wednesday's ceremony was attended by fewer than two dozen spectators, all well above draft age.

At the ceremony, birthdates and draft priority numbers were drawn one at a time from two plastic cylinders and then matched up to produce what is called a "random selection sequence number" to determine vulnerability. Men with the lowest numbers would be summoned first if the draft were revived.

Men born on January 5, for example, will have the second greatest chance of being called while men born on February 16 will be third and men born on Sept. 24 will be fourth.

The last of the men drafted before the President's induction authority expired are due to be discharged this fall and Dewhurst said summer enlistments were expected to enable the military services to reach their authorized strength of 2.2 million men by late August.

Chances of maintaining this level on a voluntary basis "look very good," he added.

China gaslights

Gaslighting may have been used first in China in the 10th century when natural gas was captured in bags or bladders as it escaped from the ground. When they wanted light, the Chinese pricked holes in the bags and ignited the gas as it leaked out.

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone who lacks your initiative and drive could use a little praise and push from you today. Try to help.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will get your best results with others if you use the soft-sell approach. Be assertive gently.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You feel you can slack off a bit in going after what you want, but don't. Success will elude if you do.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll do more thinking about what you should be doing than doing it today. Stop daydreaming. Force yourself to act on your ideas.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Go out of your way to be generous to one who has been very considerate of you lately. Let her know you're appreciative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll have some difficulty making up your mind about important issues and sticking to your decisions. Don't vacillate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's not likely you'll finish all those little tasks today. But don't neglect work that can't be put off.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your interests will be focused on pleasurable pursuits. Routine activities won't receive due attention.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today is not likely to be a very exciting one for you, but you'll find quiet satisfaction through domestic involvements.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Concentrate more on mental activities rather than physical ones. A good book will be very relaxing this evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One shouldn't be obsessed by material interests. However, don't be totally indifferent regarding finances today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't put on airs today for anyone or pretend you're something you're not. Be yourself, regardless of why you're dealing with.

Gas rationing coupons won't be discarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite President Nixon's announcement that gasoline rationing will not be necessary now, the Federal Energy Office (FEO) said that it did not plan to dispose of some five billion ration coupons.

A spokesman said the coupons, which were said to have cost $12 million to print, would be held in storage.

"We can never tell what might happen when the Arab nations meet June 1 to review the decision to lift the oil embargo," he said. "It's a questionable thing."

The spokesman said Arab oil in all probability would continue to flow to U.S. refineries. But he said there was always the possibility it could stop and that rationing would be necessary.

Two prints by Picasso stolen at Bangkok exhibit

BANGKOK (UPI) — Two prints by the late Pabo Picasso have been stolen from an art exhibit here, French authorities said today.

Thieves apparently using razor blades cut the prints from their frames Tuesday at the Alliance Francaise where the Picasso exhibit is being shown, Alliance officials said. The thieves tried to steal a third print but could not cut it from its frame, they said.

The prints were stolen when the exhibit was open to the public. The single guard providing security for the exhibit discovered the thefts when he noticed the empty frames.

An Alliance spokesman said the total exhibit comprising 58 prints was insured for $200,000, but could give no estimate on what each of the stolen prints was worth.

At the time of the opening here, Edmond Babin, director of the Alliance Francaise, said of security arrangements "I am not afraid," and added the prints are so unique they cannot be sold.

Sierra Club lecture slated

CLAREMONT — Dr. Sylvia Broadbent of UC Riverside will be speaker at the Mt. Baldy Group of the Sierra Club monthly program here Tuesday.

She will speak on "Journey to an Endangered Jungle." The program, starting at 8 p.m., will be held in Baxter Hall at the Claremont Colleges. It is open to the public.

2 assemblymen in fist fight; one is kayoed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Kenneth Meade of Oakland was knocked unconscious recently in a fist fight with Assemblyman Louis Papan of Daily City.

The exchange between the two Democratic lawmakers took place outside a meeting of the Assembly Transportation Committee.

Meade, 36, who suffered facial cuts, was examined at Sutter Memorial Hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory. Meade apparently struck his head against a desk during the exchange with Papan.

Papan, 46, suffered a black eye. He confirmed there had been a disagreement with Meade, but would give no details.

The doctor comments

Disease of kidneys takes many forms

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please describe in your column the symptoms of kidney disease. It seems I pass my water more than normal. It never really bothered me because I do drink a lot of liquids. But lately, every morning as soon as I get up I have to go to the bathroom. It feels as if there is a pressure in my stomach.

Also, would I have to go to a specialist or a regular doctor for a checkup for this type of problem. I'm 22 years old.

DEAR READER — There are a lot of different types of kidney disease. Sometimes the first real indication is high blood pressure. If a person has an acute infection of the kidney he may have severe pain in the back over the lower ribs. Of course, you could have fever and other signs of infection with this problem.

Then there are the low-grade chronic infections that may not produce any noticeable symptoms. Kidney stones also are a form of kidney disease and can be silent or cause severe pain in the abdomen, in the back or into the groin.

Bleeding in the urine is often a sign of kidney disease. It can be from the bladder, however. It should never be ignored and should be evaluated by a doctor at once. Sometimes sudden bleeding in the urine without other problems is an indication of a kidney cancer, so you should never postpone an examination for the cause of blood in the urine.

Passing urine frequently can be a sign of kidney disease, but more often in women it is a sign of inflammation of the bladder, usually a less serious problem. It can even be caused by nervousness.

Increased frequency of urination can mean prostate trouble in men. When a large volume of urine is passed regularly it may be simply because of a habit of drinking lots of liquids, or it could be an indication of a problem unrelated to the kidneys. A diabetic often eliminates lots of urine, and he will be thirsty, causing him to drink lots of water to replace the loss. This can occur even though the diabetic's kidneys are still normal.

You would be wise to see your family doctor first for an evaluation of your symptoms. If it is proved to be diabetes, which I doubt, you would not need to see a kidney specialist. Your family doctor can tell if you have a problem and if it is complicated enough to warrant having you see a specialist for it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 14 years old, five feet two, and weigh 110 pounds. My average caloric intake per day is about 1,500 to 1,800 calories. I have seen many charts saying that my caloric intake should be 2,200. I know if I ate that much I would be fatter than I am now. I am fat now, and 2,200 calories is a lot of calories.

DEAR READER — I agree. Most charts recommend 2,100 to 2,400 calories for girls in your age group. But, this is just an average figure and is high because you are still in your growing years. However, you have to decide how many calories you need on the basis of your own body, not someone else's. If you are accumulating fat, then either you are not getting enough physicl activity or you are taking in too many calories.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Smoke rings

BONN (UPI) — Government figures show that the number cigarettes smoked in West Germay in 1973 remained approximately the same as in 1972, despite a known drop in smokers. An industry spokesman explained this by saying "the continuing smokers are smoking more."

BIBLICAL QUARTET — Cynthy Ryanen, rear left, as Gabriel, Totsunori Ryu as Isaac, Jim Henderson, sitting in front, as Abraham and Danny Bullard as God act out a scene from the satirical Biblical tale "Foolspell" to be presented this weekend in La Verne College's Founders Hall.

Rank returned

Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell, who was court-martialed in 1926 because of his outspoken criticisms, was posthumously restored to the rank of major general in 1942.

Flight speed up to 40 m.p.h

The normal flight speed of ducks and geese in migration is between 30 and 40 miles an hour.

'Foolspell' comedy slated in La Verne

LA VERNE — "Foolspell," a contemporary satire of several Biblical tales, will be staged Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m. in Founders Hall of La Verne College.

Patterned after the Medieval Trade Cycles, the play traces the creation of the world and continues through the Apocolypse, reported drama student Frank Ramirez, author and director.

God and Gabriel, the two central figures of the comedy, together and separately tangle with such adversaries as Abraham, Moses, Jacob, Noah and the Devil.

The music is original except for the hymn "They'll Know We Are Christian by Our Love."

Characters and players are: God, Danny Bullard; Gabriel, Cynthy Ryanen; Abraham, Jim Henderson; Actor 4, Linda Rivett; Actor 5, Robin Carroll; kazoo player, Scott Elsey; angels, Lokelani Inciong, Janine Cole, Penny Datner; musicians, John Trueblood, Jill Langer; boy, Tim Ramirez; Isaac, Totsunori Ryv.

Wayne Trimmer is technical director while Miss Inciong has charge of choreography and Miss Cole is stage manager for the student production.

Other participating students are Ramirez, lighting; Kevin Bash, Phinny, Elsey and Trueblood, setting; Jacqueline Larson, Miss Ryanen and Jill Langer, costumes; Skip Clague, Bash, Judy Golden and Miss Larsen, makeup; Robin Carroll, properties.

General admission is $1.50 and student tickets will be sold for 75 cents. Those wishing additional information concerning tickets should contact Linda de Vries, associate professor of speech and drama, 593-3511 Ext. 252.

Bribery charges

Meat packing plant owners are indicted

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted 11 persons, including three meat packing plant owners, on charges of trying to bribe food inspectors to pass on contaminated beef.

William A. Sullivan, assistant director of the FBI, said nine of the suspects offered money to U.S. Department of Agriculture meat graders. Two others were charged with offering bribes to food inspectors.

USDA meat graders are responsible for determining the quality of meat for packing companies.

The three packing house owners were Bernard Fineman, 56, Highland Meat Packing Co.; Peter R. Brun, 42, O.K. Packing Co., and Reuben Krasn, 48, Globe Packing Co.

Economy without cramps.

Buying a compact car with a six-cylinder engine can make room in your budget. If that compact car is an economical 1974 Chevy Nova 6, you'll also end up with a lot of room in your car. "Automotive Industries' Roominess Index" says no domestic compact at any price has more head and shoulder room, front and rear, than Nova. The roomy, economical Nova 6 comes in three versatile models, 2-door, 4-door and Hatchback. All in all, Nova 6 makes a lot of sense right now.

The 3-Door. You can carry people around comfortably in any 1974 Nova 6. The Hatchback Nova 6 lets you carry lots of things around comfortably. Open the rear hatch, fold down the rear seat, and you'll have nearly six feet of flat load space. Six flat feet are just what you need on grocery shopping or moving days. Right?

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 2407 ARROW HIGHWAY

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 383 of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, until 9:00 o'clock A.M. on April 9, 1974, on which date they will be publicly opened and read, for the construction of cement concrete curb, gutter, drives, steps, pavement and walks, walls, drainage structures, crushed aggregate base, asphalt concrete pavement, asphalt concrete curb, fence work, traffic signal work, together with concrete removal, clearing and grubbing, embankment, excavation, grading, shaping, preparation of subgrade, removal of existing improvements and other incidental and appurtenant work, estimated to cost less than $670,000.00 all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans and Specifications and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are filed in Room 383.

The Engineer may, from time to time, and without Board approval, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period of advertising for bids, for the following purposes: (a) revising Prevailing Wage Scales, (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposal; provided however that any such addenda shall not change the original scope and intent of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of, and furnished with copies of, such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

A "Faithful Performance "Bond"s amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material' amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Dated: March 12, 1974.

Legislator asks all firms adopt 1875 guarantee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., says all he wants to do is ensure that every manufacturer and retailer in American adopts the guarantee from the 1875 Montgomery Ward Catalog.

Holding the tiny blue catalogue up at a hearing of the House Government Operations Committee rectnly, Holifield said the mail order firm promised an exchange or refund if for any reason the purchaser was not satisfied.

Holifield said the bill pending before the committee to create a new Federal Consumer Protection Agency would help ensure every seller adopts the same policy as Montgomery Ward, Sears and J.C. Penney and other mail order houses.

After Holifield's presentation, the committee voted down a series of administration-backed amendments designed to limit the right of the proposed agency to bring suit against other federal agencies on behalf of consumers.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

This 20 Second Ad Can Change Your Life!
If you're not afraid to read it!
DO YOU TAKE "SALESMAN WANTED" ads with a grain of salt? I can't say that I blame you. I've followed up a few myself in the past. The job seldom lived up to the claim in the ad. DO YOURSELF A FAVOR AND EXPLORE THIS ONE!
I need 3 good men. If you'd like to make $400 weekly (advance against comm) with an eye to much more in the future, I would like to talk with you!
If your qualifications match our requirements, this could be the career you've been looking for.

Osteopaths win fight for licenses

UPLAND — An Upland law firm has won a state Supreme Court decision that will allow new osteopaths to practice as physicians in California.

The high tribunal declared by a unanimous vote that the present law which prohibits the licensing of new osteopaths is unconstitutional because it violates the equal protection provisions of both the state and the U.S. Constitution.

The ruling culminates a six-year fight through the state courts by the law firm of Tobin and Gassner in behalf of a group of out-of-state osteopaths who are seeking to set up medical practices in Southern California.

The decision is expected to ease the state's shortage of physicians, according to the law firm.

"The most significant aspect of the ruling is that it gives California about 850 physicians and surgeons who can come into the state immediately, fully trained," Alexander R. Tobin, senior partner in the law firm, said.

He said California was the only state in the nation that has prohibited the licensing of new osteopaths.

(Reason on Decisions)

The Supreme Court apparently based its decision on the admission of the state board of medical examiners that osteopathy in recent years has evolved into a complete school of medicine and surgery, and considers its background "equal to that of the allopathic (M.D.) background for purpose and membership on its specialty boards."

Dr. Richard Eby, a Pomona osteopath who was the charter president of the Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons of California, Inc., hailed the Supreme Court ruling as a "landmark decision that will bring great benefits to the people of the state."

He said his organization has been fighting the ban on osteopaths ever since it was adopted 12 years ago.

"It's a terrific vicotry," he declared. "It shows that there is still justice in the land."

First effect

Dr. Eby said the first effect will be an increase in the number of family physicians here when osteopaths set up practice in the state.

"Allopaths have tended to specialize in recent years," he explained, "leaving the general practice of medicine in other states pretty much to the osteopaths. California is the only state in the nation that has not permitted new osteopaths to practice here."

He said the average age of the California osteopath is 72 and "without the new Supreme Court decision we would soon have died out. This gives us a new lease on our profession."

He said the great shortage of physicians here is certain to be relieved by the influx of new osteopaths.

"And it won't cost us a cent," he contended, "because they were all trained out of state. There are no schools of osteopathy in California."

Snyder upsets recall attempt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — City Councilman Arthur K. Snyder beat back the city's first recall attempt in 24 years Tuesday, scoring a surprising victory in an election that drew an unusually large voter turnout.

Snyder, an Anglo Republican, was expected to be ousted from office following a determined drive by his five opponents, all Mexican-American Democrats, in a heavily Mexican-American and Democratic district.

Final unofficial returns from 150 precincts gave Snyder 15,575 votes against recall, almost 62 per cent, confirming him solidly in office.

Sugar riches

CLEWISTON, Fla. (UPI) — First commercial production of sugar in this country took place in the early British colony of New Smyrna on Florida's east coast. Today Floria accounts for more than 7 per cent of the nation's sugar needs, according to the Florida Sugar Cane League.
